200 Attend Stuart Grass Day Meet

STUART—Two hundred persons attended the grass day program Friday at Stuart, sponsored by the U.S. department of agriculture council.

W. E. Ringler, extension soil specialist, stressed the importance of using crop residue, manure and legumes wherever possible to build soil fertility. He also stressed supplementing their use with commercial fertilizers to boost yields, but pointed out that commercial fertilizers alone are not the answer. He gave data collected by the college on corn tests and other data on native grass on work conducted by County Agent Neil Dawes.

L. F. Bredemeier, district conservationist, discussed the prairie fire of last fall in the Wood Lake area. He stated that many ranchers knew they would have to "rest the burned area for a year or two." He said that most of all the area would need rain to prevent serious wind erosion. Some of the area will be reseeded. He also gave some experience of grass seedings and blowout control in Holt county.

E. C. Conard, agronomist, discussed grass seeding and seed bed preparation and also the harvesting of native grasses. He said the most important thing was to plant the right kind of grass at the right time on a well prepared seed bed. He also mentioned that such seed as Indian grass, sand lovegrass and switch grass have a dormancy period of one year.

Ira K. Landon, soil conservation service, substituted for E. J. Dyksterhuis, who was unable to attend. He discussed range management and pointed out graphically that if "you keep down the shoot you kill the root." He also said that by working with nature instead of against her, ranchers will be able to improve their range in many cases.

Harry Ressel reviewed the coming year's program of the PMA. He stated that he would rather call the stored corn a reserve instead of a surplus, and "it is how rapidly the surplus of the early 1930's vanished."

Panel members discussing the harvesting of hay were: John Steck, of Newport; Rudy Dvorak, of Atkinson; Ray Siders, of O'Neill; Dewey Schaffer, of O'Neill; Bob Clifford, of Atkinson; Neil Dawes, of O'Neill, moderator.

Many interesting points were discussed on the pro and con of round baling. It was fairly well agreed that it was an improvement over windrowing but that whether a rancher used it or not and to what extent would have to be determined by his needs for additional haying equipment and his ability to feed it on the meadows. Round bales are discriminated against for commercial sale.

Bill Derrick, extension animal husbandman, climaxed the day's program with his discussion on mineral needs of livestock.

Door prize of $25.00 went to: Mrs. L. E. Root, of Atkinson; Mrs. W. D. Whitwer, of O'Neill; Dean Focken, of Atkinson; Kasper W. Harley, of Atkinson; Bernard Hoffman, of Chambers, and Rudy Dvorak, of Atkinson.

Money for prizes was donated by the O'Neill Production Credit association and Elkhorn Valley National Farm Loan association.

February Rain Brings Welcomed Moisture

A February shower—r-fain—brought welcomed moisture to the O'Neill region late Tuesday night and early Wednesday. Intermittent rainfall totaled .73 of an inch.

Holt countians have been mighty happy with their weather lot today this winter, but next week brings the first anniversary of the historic hurricane blizzard of March 7, 1950.

Hardy citizenry could be seen on the streets this week on numerous occasions in shirt-sleeves—the weather was so mild.

Week's weather summary, based on 24-hour periods ending at 6 p.m. daily, follows:

| | Hi | Lo | Prec. |
|-------------|----|----|-------|
| February 21 | 49 | 18 | |
| February 22 | 52 | 29 | |
| February 23 | 46 | 28 | |
