

The Frontier Woman—

It's the Penny Saved on Oft-Purchased Items that Adds Up to Neat Savings

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

The big question these days is how to save a dime here and there. Goodness knows the dollars go down the drain like water through a big holed colander.

Most families need to spend a third of their income for food these days. If you can raise a garden and can garden stuff, have an orchard and can fruit, or buy fruit and can it, you are making a sizeable saving for your family purse.

To be sure that you are getting the food you need these days and that you are not over-expending, try to remember that these few simple rules will help you.

A quart of milk for each child and a pint for each adult. Pasteurized, bottled, unsweetened evaporated and dried milk have practically the same food value. Canned milk can be used for cooking, and is cheaper.

At least 6 pounds of vegetables and fruit a week are needed for each person in your family. One-sixth to one-half of the food money should go for bread, cereals, macaroni and rice. The weekly allowance for each person should be 2- to 4- pounds of bread and 1- to 2-pounds of cereal. The smaller the allowance for food, the more should be spent on the inexpensive cereals.

The allowance for meat should not exceed that for milk, unless the ideal amount of milk has already been bought.

Enough butter, margarine and other fats should be bought to supply between one-half and seven-eighths of a pound of fat for every member of the family over 3-years-old.

It is the penny saved on a pound of butter, a few cents saved on sugar, eggs and bread that add up to a neat savings, because these are the things most often purchased. Small price differences are not so important on clothing, since it is bought less frequently. One overcoat is bought in 2 or 3 years. But food is bought every day, and 10 cents a day, saved on food, amounts to $30 in a year.

The most expensive food is not always the most nutritious. Rare, hard-to-ship, out-of-season food is not any better for you than cheaper in-season products. Plan the meals. Use left overs. If not enough is left for all, perhaps it can be combined with something else. Compare prices at the stores to learn where values are greatest. Choose a clean store at which to shop.

Notes Nebraska's Changeable Weather—

Dear Mrs. Pease: I am one of your regular readers and enjoy the recipes and helps very much. My hobby is collecting recipes.

I would like a little help as I have 2 problems. I would like a good raised doughnut recipe and what can I do to keep my brown sugar from getting hard?

My, how our Nebraska weather can change! Yesterday it was such a lovely day and I washed and spaded up a little patch of my garden and planted 2 rows of peas, a row of potatoes and a few radishes and planted some bachelor buttons out in the yard.

Today it is cold and wet out, after a nice rain last night.

I am enclosing a chocolate cake recipe that we like very much. My sister-in-law gave me the idea of using cream in chocolate cakes instead of butter or shortening. I've found it works very nicely. I always keep my butter in the refrigerator so I have to wait for it to soften up before I can do anything with it, and so by using cream I save a little time.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

Two cups sugar, 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup sour milk, 1 heaping teaspoon soda dissolved in hot water, 1/2 cup cocoa, in 1/2 cup boiling water, 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla. The recipe doesn't call for salt but I put a half teaspoon full of salt in. Mix in the order given and bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 to 35 minutes.

PIE CRUST

I always have good luck with this pie crust recipe. One and one-half cups flour, 1/4 cup cold water, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Sift flour, measure and sift with salt. Cut in shortening until mixture is coarse. Work water in. Bake in hot oven of 450 F. about 15 minutes. Enough for a 2-crust pie or 2 shells.

"A FARMER'S WIFE"

SANDHILL SAL

It doesn't make so much difference if your pocket book is small providing you have a big heart to go with it. Lots of husbands become hard boiled because they are kept in hot water too much. The penny saved won't buy much of anything these days and a nickel not much. But they're all a part of a dollar, don't forget.
