

More Cherries—and Cherry Pie, Too!

Maybe you can't have your cake and eat it too, but you can have more cherries and still eat the cherry pie, according to Bob Hill, of the Soil Conservation Service in O'Neill.

Housewives may sell uncooked Nanking cherry seed which will go to produce more cherries and they will still have the fruit for delicious pies.

Mr. Hill received word this week from Laird Wolfe, manager of the Soil Conservation Service nursery at Waterloo, that they will pay housewives $1 per pound for pitted seed from uncooked Nanking cherries. The seed need not be absolutely clean, but it must have been spread out and dried so that it hasn't soured. The seed may be turned in at the Soil Conservation Service office in O'Neill.

Hill points out that the demand for Nanking cherry has been so great in recent years that all nurseries have been unable to get sufficient seed to produce enough seedlings to meet the demand. The quality of the fruit makes it excellent for preserves and pies. The dense vigorous growth of the plant and its lack of suckering or root sprouting make it a very popular choice for the shrub row on the north and west sides of shelterbelts and windbreaks.

Exchange Chores

During All-Day Meet— Sunday, July 8, the Riverside 4-H club and a few friends gathered at the John Vitt home with well-filled baskets for a picnic dinner and supper.

The boys spent part of the afternoon swimming in the river, and the girls spent the afternoon playing in the yard. At chore time the group divided and did one another's chores and all met at the Ed Boyle home where the Boyle boys set off a display of fireworks. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pribil and girls, Mr. and Mrs. John Pribil and family, Mrs. Grace Summers and son, Helen Anne Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bartos, Wendell Babl, the Ramold and Babutzka boys, and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Pribil and family.

At midnight Mrs. Boyle served sandwiches and coffee. The regular meeting that was to be held at the Price home on Sunday, the 15, was not held on account of the O'Neill celebration. No date has been set.—By Mary Frances Vitt, news reporter.

Shortage Harvest Workers Likely

"Current labor demand reports indicate that northern Nebraska will experience some shortage of hay hands and small grain harvest workers before the end of the month," Walter A. Steffen, Norfolk area manager of the Nebraska state employment service, stated Wednesday.

The Norfolk employment office receives daily labor market information from other employment offices and neighboring states during the harvest season and has the responsibility of transferring workers from localities of labor surplus to points of shortage with a minimum waste in time and transportation costs to the workers and employers, Steffen said.

To provide better service to farmers, ranchers and harvest workers, the state employment offices have the help of volunteer labor representatives in many communities who also direct workers to points where they are needed.

In this area, the volunteer representatives are: Joe Hladovcak, Neligh; Walter Sires, Butte; Jerry Sixta, Lynch; Eugene Newton, Ainsworth.

Harry E. Ressel, O'Neill; Julian Sojka, Ewing; Edwin A. Wink, Chambers; Woodrow Freeman, Atkinson; K. Duane Cook, Springfield.
