Planned Kitchen Includes Sink and Work Table at Proper Height

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

Madam, have you planned your kitchen for saving time and effort? If not, maybe it could do with some rearranging. For instance, you want to arrange the kitchen equipment into the following work centers: For preparing food; for cooking food, for serving, and for clearing away.

Place the work table or work counter near the stove, and place the sink conveniently near the stove and work table. You want the refrigerator near the work table, but as far from the stove as convenience will permit. Place the cabinets for storing dishes near the sink so that it is not much effort to put dishes away.

Store all supplies as conveniently near as possible to the place where you most often need them. Have a convenient place for storing cleaning materials near the articles they will be used to clean.

Have your sink and work table or counter at the correct height.

Use a tray or service table or wagon to carry dishes from dining room to kitchen. Use your kitchen cabinet counters for a work table, as well as a place to keep supplies.

Think back over your work. Have you had a satisfactory work program for each week, so as to best spread out the work and yet accomplish more?

Here is a possible work program which some like. On Mondays, mend, get laundry ready, straighten house and wash any fancy lingerie.

Tuesday, do the washing. Mop kitchen and laundry, and clean the basement and back porch.

Wednesday is ironing day.

On Thursday clean the bedrooms and that will leave the living room and bathroom and such to clean on Friday.

On Saturday, clean the kitchen, defrost refrigerator, do the marketing, any extra baking.

Rain Gets Her Down—
Mrs. Stanley Peters, of O'Neill, wins our 3-months' subscription this week:

O'Neill, Nebr.

Dear Blanche:
Have been wanting to write for some time but seems like there is always something to do.

This rainy weather is just about getting me down. Being cooped up with 2 small fry that just ache to be outside is really a problem.

Did you know that a very good solution for washing walls is 1 cup sal soda, 1 cup household ammonia, and 1 gallon hot water.

I use a sponge to wash with and a soft cloth to rinse and find this works very well.

My kitchen is quite large and is painted white. I used this method and it isn't streaked at all.

Did you know that 2 tablespoons of Dextol and 2 tablespoons of Perfix dissolved in a quart of water will take out mildew?

Here is a good recipe for—

ICE BOX COOKIES

One cup brown sugar, 1 cup white sugar, 1 cup shortening. Cream this well, and add 3 eggs, 1 at a time, and beat well. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix 2 teaspoons soda with 2 tablespoons hot water, add to the mixture. Four and 1/2 cups flour, 1 pound chopped dates, 1 cup nuts. Roll and chill. Slice thin, then bake in moderate oven about 350 F. until done.

These may be kept in cool place for some time. Also, chocolate chips can be used instead of dates.

MRS. STANLEY PETERS

Save Time By ...

Spreading a package of chocolate bits on the cake you've just taken from the oven. Thrust back into the oven for 5 minutes, take out and spread softened chips over the cake for frosting.

Making up a double batch of ice box cookies. Vary them, if possible, and bake the second half later in the week. They'll be fresh and delicious.

You will save a lot of time sewing a long seam if you use paper clips to hold the edges together instead of basting the seam.

Spreading newspapers out on the table to clean vegetables on. When you're done simply gather up the newspapers and burn them.

Using home made pastry mix. Mix up a batch every so often, and same time when baking pastry shells, as all you have to do is add water.

SANDHILL SAL

Keep your temper. Nobody else wants it and besides it's too valuable to lose.

When you feel like giving somebody a piece of your mind, don't! You will be showing yourself that you've got a mind after all!

A gal who doesn't diet just to get a man may not actually be weak willed. She may like food better than she likes men!

THE CASE OF THE missing wallet

OPERATOR MAY JENSEN* listened attentively as the lady related her problem. She was traveling ... had left her wallet at a cafe perhaps a hundred miles back ... but couldn't quite recall the name of the restaurant or even the town.

"Did you pick up a match book there?" suggested May.

The lady emptied her purse, scoured its contents—and found a match book with a vaguely familiar restaurant name on the cover. In seconds May put through the phone call that saved the lady hours of worry and delay. The wallet was at the cafe, it would be mailed to her destination.

Then May got ready for the next call. No telling who it'd be, or what the problem. No matter—many a tough case can be solved by the calm, alert operator who likes to help people.

*The name has been changed; the story is true.

EIGHT OUT OF TEN people who have asked for telephone service since the war have been taken care of without waiting—and this in spite of a tremendous increase in demand. Supplying these 550,000 new customers—plus other expansion and improvement—has required 165 million dollars more investment.

We intend to continue to add the plant necessary to meet the needs for service provided earnings are enough to attract this investment money.
