What perported to be young democrats met in Omaha the other day. The young generation is credited with being endowed with a bit of breezy freshness capable of originality and new ideas. However, from the hackneyed stuff about waste in our state government got out at the gathering it appears the same old guard came to town under the pretext of representing the youth.

"Extravagance" in the management of the state's business frightens these apostles of economy but they say not a word in reproach of glaring conditions under the national administration to which is daily being added the stories of barter and trade going on to secure government favors, of the president's actions in defiance of law, contravene judicial findings and legislative enactments. Party loyalty is commendable but when it condones wrongs on the one hand and puts up a straw man to condemn on the other hand party loyalty then becomes partisan prejudice.

A former Nebraskan, C. W. Morton, has had the temerity to publish a book about "How to Protect Yourself Against Women." Perhaps the gentleman had become a lure irresistible to the fair ones and may have some valuable tips for any genits of like charm.

Senator Taft feels that Governor Dewey's feeble campaign cost the republicans the last presidential election and resulted in one of the country's most unfortunate national administrations. I was favored with a place on the platform when Governor Dewey spoke in Lincoln. The governor was rather disappointing to all of us in that platform group. His lack of punch and strong presentation of a program left his supporters without enthusiasm. The ghostly figures of military men are now outlined on the 1952 political horizon. It looks to this humble and superannuated pilgrim that a clean capable business executive, free from the shadows that have gathered in national circles, is the need of the hour to head the nation. Let us take a fresh start with clean hands and clear vision.

Four-bits 10 years ago was equal in purchasing power to $1 today, say the experts. Why 10 years ago? Say 20, 40 or more! The dollar now is on the level with a dime. What has been can be again. What you stubbed your toe on yesterday you may do it next week. Inflation has been in

Colorful Ken Kitts Couldn't Have Escaped Holt's Sheriff Eli Hershiser

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS

LINCOLN — In a county the size of Holt the school land issue means something. Two out of each group of 35 sections are known as school land. Some of it has gone begging for years. Now all at once everybody wants it.

The legislature did what was deemed best for the schools, though the schools have been functioning pretty well since sold house days. Many outlying districts in Holt and other counties have few or no children of school age.

It appears to us that patriots who have put buildings and fences on school sections and lived thereon for a half-century are entitled to some consideration.

Our legislature has had the knack of getting worthwhile citizens into trouble while all the while they thought to protect the interests of the state.

As one man points out, there may be in given communities individuals who do not want the land themselves but will run the bids up to make it a hardship for the lease-holder who has spent nearly a lifetime on the land to raise the other's bid so as to retain possession.

Schools are costing increasingly more with the coaches and specialists not known by the older generation, who seem to have met life's problems without having had such influences brought to bear on their young lives.

Comes the wind clean and cold. The sun the other side of the equator comes late over the hills to the east. The wind, being clean and cold, brings the blush of fire in the blood to the faces of those hurrying feet. The wind, so cold and clean, the worry is: will those ears of corn among the stalks be any good to turn into Kellogg's corn flakes?

The September report of the Nebraska library commission gives the program for the meeting of the state association in Omaha, October 11-13. The report says: "The Atkinson public library is being remodeled by pushing the front wall forward to the street line. This will add approximately 7 feet to the building. When the construction work is completed the whole building is to be redecorated." Miss Clara B. Johnson, who resigned as executive secretary of the commission a year ago to be with her mother in Broken Bow, is taking over the county librarian work at Millersburg, Ohio.

A gentleman of the cloth has visited some Nebraska points on his "circuit riding" tour that is said to have added up to a million miles, hoping thereby to accomplish something in the interest of world peace. All may wish his reverence Godspeed, at the same time entertaining suspicions that world peace cannot be achieved by beating the air in this fashion.

Lincoln is known the world around for its educational advantages. One college, Union, has on its campus students from India, Canal Zone, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Egypt, Panama, Sweden, Hawaii, Peru, Korea, Jamaica, Honduras, Nigeria and young men and women from 30 of the states.

the air for a decade. It may get worse before it fades. An old $30 cow was never worth $300. A $3 shoe is not worth $20, what they ask for them today down on "O" street. Five dollars-an-acre land isn't worth $50. A 2-dollar-a-day man isn't worth $2 an hour. Inflation—what makes it? A lot of things enter into the final result. It began with the new deal supplanting the law of supply and demand by handouts that have struted as the means of maintaining "parity" and have blown the everlasting daylight out of our pay-as-you-go tradition to pile up a monumental debt against the taxpayers of the future, the babies now in swaddling clothes.

Congressman Buffett has assembled the figures. He wonders how long it can continue. But 17,663,783 beneficiaries trust that it goes on forever. That is the number, or 1 out of 9, citizens who receive each month a government check not now in the service of the government. These figures do not include the other millions who receive government funds from time-to-time, such as "parity" payments. The smallest group in on this monthly cheer are 6,325 coast guard pensioners, the largest number of pensioners being 3,605,234 aged persons. It will not be completely satisfactory till the other 8 are in on handouts.

The FBI got him. But the halo of the heroics is woefully absent. Kenneth Kitts, the poor cuss, outlaw that he is, chained hand and foot and 30 of those federal flat-foots hovering over him with a "6" gun in each hand. A gent like Eli Hershiser could have brought him in single-handed. Kitts killed nobody, held up a few banks, stole automobiles and got out of jails. Even a crook ought to have somewhere an even break with the police. The FBI has him. Let them keep him. Enough now in our state prison. (Editor's note: Mr. Hershiser, too, thinks Kitts couldn't have gotten away with the elementary noak he used on a Nebraska pen guard. He recounts back in 1883, when the original courthouse had room for only a clerk, treasurer and judge, he used to bed down prisoners in "cells" designated by chalk marks on the floor. A ward from Illinois suggested to Hershiser the sheriff would have trouble confining him within the chalk lines. Hershiser invited him to "Start something!" The prisoners stayed.)

According to chemists of the Ohio state university chlordane, lindane or dimite will clear the lawn of chiggers. Jack Frost is about ready to do the job with no effort on your part.

An Indiana cattle feeder, in bed sick, got in touch by telephone with the sale ring auction out at Harrison and bought 80 head of young Nebraska feeders, $33.80 hundred weight.

Up-and-At-It Meets; 1 Member Absent—
The Up-and-At-It club met at the home of Doris, Patty and Darlene Pierson on Sunday afternoon, September 16.

This meeting was a special one concerning those who did not have all of their book filled out for the end of the year and some were handed to the leaders that afternoon. All members were present but one.

Doris Pierson led the flag pledge. Mary Schmitz led the 4-R pledge. Awards were given to those who went to the Tri-County fair at Stuart.

The next meeting will be held at the Slaughter home but no definite date was set. After the meeting we sang songs for entertainment. Mrs. Pierson served a lunch. —By Elaine Babutke.

Awarded $1,550 Damages on Power Lines—

Alfred T. Drayton, of O'Neill, and Ed Kocian, of Spencer, were awarded $1,550 in damages last week by a federal court jury in session at Norfolk.

The government filed the case, asking the jury to decide the amount of damages to the defendant land when electric transmission lines were constructed to Ft. Randall.

Junius D. Cronin, of O'Neill, and F. M. Deutsch, of Norfolk, were Drayton's attorneys.

Auxiliary Plans Stamp Sales—
The American Legion auxiliary, Simonson unit 93, is sponsoring a sale of savings stamps to be sold in both schools in the first and third week of every month.

County schools are also participating in this drive and orders are already coming in. The sale of the stamps at 10 cents a stamp, is a start to encourage children to place at least a small amount in savings.

"Don't be frightened," said the voice, "I'll be your sitter"

KATHY CONNER*, age 5, sat up suddenly in her bed. She'd been asleep and now the house seemed strangely dark and still. Somehow she needed to hear a friendly voice. Then she remembered: her parents were out for the evening.

Kathy called out to the sitter, but nobody answered. In a near-panic, she raced to the telephone.

"Don't be frightened," said the reassuring voice of Operator June Swanson. "I'll be your sitter till your folks get home."

As she talked to Kathy, she learned where the parents were visiting, got another operator to call them. In minutes they were home. Pretty short minutes, too, with a telephone sitter to talk to.

WAGES All these are costs which have continued to rise. If we are to keep on serving you well, we must have prices for service that cover these costs, yet leave a reasonable profit.
