

Eagles Topple Burwell, 19-6

In their 3d start of the season, Coach Marv Miller's O'Neill high Eagles manufactured a win. They lampooned the Burwell Longhorns, 19-6, on the Carney park grid.

The Eagles were exhibiting a more aggressive brand of ball against Burwell than shown in earlier games. They converted scoring opportunities into points in handy fashion.

The first marker resulted early in the game. O'Neill had kicked to Burwell, the Blues recovered a Longhorn fumble, and Halfback Don Calkins was sprung into pay territory from the 10. His booted try for point hit a goal post.

Later in the period, O'Neill kicked to Burwell, wrestled the ball from the visitors and hammered across 6 more with Calkins skirting his own left end from the 20. His kick was good.

Before the first half ended, Burwell completed a long pass into the end zone, making the score 13-6 at intermission.

The second half was see-saw, with Burwell holding a distinct advantage in rushing. But the Horns couldn't score again. In Burwell's last-minute desperation pass, O'Neill halfback Don Godel intercepted and streaked down the sidelines from about 30 yards out and scored.

Eddie Tomlinson, O'Neill fullback, was a defensive power. He was executing some vicious tackles.

The Eagles go to Creighton Friday night, Hartington high rocked Creighton, 39-6.

Cardinals Resume With St. Pat's

The St. Mary's academy Cardinals will open their home grid season against St. Pat's, Fremont, in Carney park Friday night. The Cards lost their opener to Cathedral, Lincoln, 48-0.

Plan REA Phone Loop in County

A meeting was held at the courthouse annex in O'Neill September 18.

A committee was chosen to form an organization to establish an REA rural telephone system in Holt county.

The committee chosen follows: Art Fuelberth, of Stuart; Charles Fox, of O'Neill; Henry Vequist, of O'Neill; Vernon Yarges, of Stuart; M. L. Hammond, of O'Neill; Howard Obere, of Dorsey; Elmer Trowbridge, of Page; Dale Revel, of Star; Carl Lambert, of Ewing; P. V. Hickey, of O'Neill; Harvey Tompkins, of Inman; Carroll O'Neill, of O'Neill.

A chairman of committee was elected from members of the committee.

On September 27 a meeting of the committee was held at the REA office at O'Neill. A REA telephone representative was at the meeting, and the procedure to follow to get the REA telephone system established was outlined to the members.

The work will be carried forward as fast as possible and the committee will appreciate the help and cooperation of all rural users who want good telephone service.

Movie Stars May Come to O'Neill

Hollywood is full of unsung heroes. They never get their names on marquees, or even on the screens, but the pictures couldn't be made without them.

In the 50 years since the opening of the first theater given over exclusively to the showing of motion pictures, studios have encountered problems and nimbly solved them through the use of these unsung experts. The anonymous heroes of the silver screen were described— with appropriate bows—here today by Georgia Rasely, manager of the Royal theater, one of the more-than-23,000 movie theaters in the country which will celebrate the golden jubilee of movie theaters through "Movietime, USA," nationwide film jamboree which will see release of the greatest films from every Hollywood studio in a continuing stream starting in October.

Mrs. Rasely said that a kickoff in connection with the celebration will be held in Lincoln October 8. It is possible, she said, that several movie stars will make a personal appearance in O'Neill following the kickoff.

20 POLIO CASES

Twenty new polio cases were reported to the Nebraska health department last week, compared to 38 in the preceding 7-day period. It was the first time in several weeks that a decline had been noted. Health department officials described it as a "seasonal" drop. Total for the year now stands at 329, compared to 298 a year ago.

CAPITOL NEWS— Governor Won't Summon Salons

LINCOLN—School land leases continued to hold the statewide spotlight last week.

Biggest development was the turnaround given representatives of the Nebraska Leaseholders association by Gov. Val Peterson. He was asked to call a special session of the legislature and ask it to change the law to provide that a lessee whose lease was up for auction would be given the right to keep it, so long as he paid as much as the highest bid.

That, said Assistant Attorney General Bob Nelson, is unconstitutional. He reminded the callers that the very heart of the supreme court's decision, which started the whole fuss in the first place, was that the state board of educational lands and funds is merely a trustee for the lands which are held in trust for the school children of Nebraska. If the board doesn't do everything it can to get as much revenue from the lands as possible, then it's not doing its duty, Nelson said.

The leaseholders — E. L. Neiman, of McCook, C. H. Schaaf, of Curtis, and Henry Anderson of Eustis—were hard to convince.

They—like a lot of angered holders of leases which turned almost overnight into scraps of paper—are bewildered.

They don't quite see how this happened to them. Neiman complained to the governor:

"The state of Nebraska should be more careful when it gives a man a lease."

Some lessees have suggested that the board could wait until the 12-year leases have expired before taking action. The answer to that, as Peterson has pointed out on several occasions, is that the Nebraska state education association and others interested in the welfare of the state's school kids, would rush to court to mandamus the board to comply with the supreme court ruling.

Implications in Basin Report

A report was released here this week that has tremendous implications for every Nebraskan.

It is a preliminary draft of a study made for the Missouri river states committee by the council of state governments. It concludes that the best solution of the problem of operating the Missouri basin's water program is "the establishment of a modified interstate compact in which the states of the basin and the federal government join as active participants."

The document, written by Elton K. McQuery, director of research for the council of state governments, used 3 yardsticks against which he measured the effectiveness of alternate plans of operating the multi-million dollar basin water program, being developed under the Pick-Sloan and Young plans.

These are the yardsticks:

1. Basin-wide coordination of operation.
2. Joint federal-state direction and control.
3. Utilization of established agencies.

The present organization, under which the corps of engineers and bureaus of reclamation is responsible for the operation of the development program, flunked the tests on yardsticks 1 and 2, passed on No. 3.

The Hoover commission recommendations, calling for a drastic overhaul of the department of interior, passed number 1, failed 2 and 3.

The proposed Missouri Valley authority, of course, passed the first yardstick, but failed to measure up on 2 and 3.

Complex Problems—

"The high degree of flexibility that the compact approach offers is one of its chief advantages," McQuery wrote. "It can be moulded to fit a wide variety of conditions to fill a complex pattern of needs."

Here's how McQuery measures the compact approach against his yardsticks:

Number 1: "In the base of the Missouri basin, the region involved is so vast that 10 states are included in whole or in part within its boundaries. If the states are to exercise a measure of real direction and control, it is necessary that a legal instrument be devised that is binding on all the states that are parties.

Number 2: "Joint federal-state participation, perhaps, can best be achieved by conditional ratification by the states of a carefully negotiated compact. The condition upon which complete ratification would hinge might be passage by the federal government of complimentary legislation providing for federal participation.

Number 3: "The effective working relationships that have been established (among existing federal agencies) should not be disrupted." McQuery suggests a Missouri basin commission to be given responsibility in two broad fields: Reservoir operation and planning.

Chambers Rebekahs Are Coming—

Eden Rebekah lodge met Friday, September 21, with 24 members present.

A special program was held observing the 100th year of Rebekah lodges.

After the meeting, lunch was served by the following committee: Elma Evans, Lona Johnson, and Julia Jones.

The lodge will meet Friday, October 5, with the Chambers lodges as guests.

95 Pass Exams of Medical Board—

The state board of examiners reported Monday 95 applicants passed the examination in medicine and surgery given June 4, 5 and 6, including: Stephen Edward Wallace, of O'Neill, and John Lear Bettie, of Ainsworth.

Answer to Suit

In district 231, Hancock admits the district is an elementary school district classified as class I, has had an enrollment of less than 5 pupils for the years 1949, '50 and '51.

He further admits that the property was taxed as alleged, and that the amount, as stated in Peterson's petition, is correct.

In his answer Hancock states he "intends to and will, unless ordered by the court to refrain, perform his duties under the statutes."

Hancock prays that "the court declare and determine the validity of the statute of Nebraska law, sections 79-438.01 to .07, as amended, which relate to the blanket tax law."

He further prays that "he, the county treasurer, be afforded relief from uncertainty and insecurity with respect to his rights and other legal relations under the statutes to persons, generally, upon whose property the tax has been levied."

Observers say that Peterson's charges are aimed directly at the law itself, to test its validity, and that both the petition and answer are basic in the matter, which will be hustled to the supreme court.

In the normal procedure of law, Hancock would issue a distress warrant on Peterson's unpaid balance.

In recent years, expanding farm and ranch units have depopulated rural sections and in many instances resulted in abandonment of schools. No school has been kept in district 231 for a number of years, and because there are no school financial requirements within the district, Peterson is protesting paying the "blanket" tax.

Attorney - General Clarence Beck and Holt County Attorney William W. Griffitt prepared Hancock's answer; Julius D. Cronin, of O'Neill, and Daniel Stubbs, of Lincoln, are attorneys for Peterson.

Confession?—Ask The Man Who Goes There!

Catholics go to Confession to a priest for one reason only: to obtain divine forgiveness for their sins.

But why, you ask, go to a priest? Why not confess our sins directly to God?

Ask the man who goes to Confession and here's what he will tell you: Sin is an offense against God, it must be forgiven by God. It is God, not man, who determines how forgiveness must be obtained. Christ plainly pointed this out when He empowered His Apostles and their successors to forgive sins or to refuse forgiveness.

"Whose sins you shall forgive," Christ said, "they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." (John 20:21-23).

Thus Christ authorized the Apostles, and their successors, to pardon or to deny pardon as they judged the sinner worthy or unworthy. To do this they had to know what they were forgiving... the secret dispositions of the sinner... his sorrow and willingness to repair the wrong done to his neighbor by his sins. Who could make this known but the sinner himself—and what is this but Confession?

But Confession—the Sacrament of Penance—is only one of the seven Sacraments Christ left in His Church. Yes, seven—no more and no less! Christ's religion is not merely a message to be accepted, but a life to be lived—from the cradle to the grave. Christ's seven Sacraments are the answer to man's seven basic needs.

Man is born, but he needs to be reborn a Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism. He is nourished, but he needs Christian nourishment in Holy Communion, the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He grows, but he needs to grow and be strengthened in Christian life by the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is cured of disease, but he needs a remedy for sin, so destructive of Christian life, and this he finds in the Sacrament of Penance.

Man lives in society which needs officials to promote the common good—and for his life in the Church, he finds officials provided by the Sacrament of Orders. He perpetuates the human race in marriage, which Christ made the Sacrament of Matrimony. And at death, he needs consolation and strength for the last dread hour which he finds in the Last Anointing—the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

Would you like to know more about each of the seven Sacraments? How they can help you to meet the seven basic needs of your life? Then write today for a free pamphlet which gives important information concerning them. Ask for Pamphlet No. 5-N.
