

The Frontier Woman —

Little Girl a Special Blessing to Mother of Family of Boys

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

How good a buyer are you, madam? Do you know how to buy food and market to an advantage?

First of all do you select a dealer whose reputation is of the best? Ask your dealer or the clerk who waits on you questions about quality and savings. Good dealers and clerks make themselves prepared to answer all such questions.

Trade at a store where the scales are in plain sight. Beware of the dealer who sets all sorts of things in front of the scales, so that you can't really see how much things weigh.

Price is not always an indication of quality. Make a trial test of qualities needed for your purpose and then you'll know where you are. Sometimes a dealer sells a certain quality at a lower price than usual, in other words he puts on a special price in order to bring you into the store. Those are good buys. If you know the regular price you can tell when you are getting a good buy.

Buy by weight when possible. Inspect foods at the market. When you go to market yourself, you can see specials and those with seasonal reductions, and may select your fruits and vegetables a lot more carefully than the clerks. Also you select the quality which suits your need.

Remember for a bargain to be a real bargain it must be offered at a price lower than its regular price or it's no bargain. Know prices and quality and you will know when you are getting a bargain.

Read the labels on things before you buy. They are put there for you to read; for your information—not only will you learn which manufacturer distributes the product but you also learn the quantity, and the net weight in the can, carton or package. Some times labels also give good recipes.

Buy in quantity. Usually there is money saved in quantity buying. Of course, there are other factors to consider, storage for instance, and cash on hand. If there is no saving in buying a dozen cans, there may be saving in buying a larger size can if you can use the contents. There is no saving in buying a larger size can and then throwing away part of the contents.

Usually, there is a saving in buying larger sizes of many products, this is particularly true of soaps, wax and many such items.

Atkinson Mother Wins Subscription—
Dear Mrs. Pease:

Once years ago in our project club, when we lived on a farm, we learned how to make our own bleach similar to Clorox. It can be made for about 13 cents a gallon.

Your readers might be interested to know how it is done.

At drug stores, get a can of "chlorinated lime" and follow the directions. You also need a box of sal soda and here's how simple it is.

Empty the lime into a 5-gallon crock and add enough water to make a thick paste.

Crush lumps and stir until smooth. Add 3 gallons of water and stir 2 or 3 minutes with a wood paddle. Dissolve a 2 pound box sal soda and add to lime. Stir again. Let stand 2 hours or overnight until sediment (useless lime or chalk) settles. Pour into dark jugs or keep in a dark, cool place. Use for disinfecting, deodorizing, and stain removal, same as the commercial products.

Often I made a smaller amount when in a hurry. It's really a money-saving recipe.

When writing letters, they aren't complete without mentioning sister, still a yearling. After a family of boys, she was a most welcome addition and also God's blessing.

Never before could I get interested in little girls' clothing. But now, my, it's fun getting dresses, hair curlers, and barrettes for her. Her youngest brother delights in selecting her prettiest dress to put on her.

"I'm going to pick it out," he says, as he looks through her array of pretty dresses, mostly baby giffs.

Best wishes to you and may your son soon be home to enjoy your new house.

"A MOM."

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Fox, of Page, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Page and David were dinner guests of Mrs. Carrie Borg and Marvel on Sunday, October 28.
