Orchard Church Is To Be Redecorated —ORCHARD — A Thanksgiving fellowship dinner was served at the Evangelical United Brethren church here following the Sunday morning service. About 100 attended.

A congregational meeting was conducted afterward by the Rev. Walter C. Millett, pastor. Group singing was led by Miss Dixie Lee Stevens, accompanied by Mrs. Harvey Holbrook. Mrs. D. L. Fletcher served as secretary. The congregation voted to redecorate the interior of the church and make other improvements, and plans for raising the money were discussed. The board of trustees, Charles Memming, Robert Willats, Harvey Holbrook, Vernon Munger and Fred Howard, will work with a special committee including Mrs. D. L. Fletcher, Mrs. Leon Mitchell, Wayne Henderson and Wendell Wilson, in carrying out the plans. The "open Bible crusade" series continued Sunday night, being designated as "bring your neighbor" night.

Inclined to Forget November 11 —

With the great and prolonged struggle of World War II still fresh in our minds, and with the horrible prospects of an atomic war clouding our thoughts of the future, we are, perhaps, inclined to forget the heroic accomplishments of those who participated in World War I, whose end is commemorated each year at Armistice day.

In addition to providing great quantities of food for the United States and her allies, Nebraska participated in almost every phase of military service during World War I. Nebraska sent a total of 57,526 young men to war—over 1,600 never came back. The 25th Infantry Regiment of the 89th Division was composed largely of young Nebraskans and fought gallantly in the battles of the Argonne Forest and Muese river, losing about one-third of its members.

Nebraska also provided significant leadership for the war effort. General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, had lived in Lincoln from 1891-95, during which time he had been commandant of cadets at the University of Nebraska. Charles G. Dawes, general purchasing agent for the AEF, had begun his distinguished career as a young lawyer in Lincoln.

An interesting phase of Nebraska's contribution to the war effort was Base hospital 49, stationed at Allereye, France.

This hospital, organized at Omaha by the University of Nebraska college of medicine, was staffed quite largely by faculty and alumni. Dr. A. C. Skokes was chief of the surgical staff.

Base hospital 49 began work on September 12, 1918, and performed an average of 20 surgical operations a day until armistice was signed. Its staff performed a total of 615 operations, and treated 130 persons for gas burns. All of the latter recovered. Indeed, the hospital is reported to have made the best record for saving life of all the American hospitals in Europe.

As the unit was returning to America, the Omaha Bee remarked editorially, April 21, 1919: "... much of this success was due to the willingness with which men of medicine and surgery responded to the call, giving over their private interests, most of them making considerable sacrifice of personal prospects or income, but all of them devoting themselves with true American zeal to the work set before them in the emergency of war."

CELIA NEWS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hendricks was the scene of a pre-Thanksgiving dinner Sunday, November 18, when a family gathering honored Mrs. Hendricks' father, Bud Staples, of Spokane, Wash., also Mr. and Mrs. Don Staples and daughter, Sharon, of Butte, who Sunday afternoon left for Spokane where they expect to make their home.
