Legislative Council
Slates School Meet

The Nebraska legislative council, acting under the authority of legislative resolution, is engaged in studying the problems of education in Nebraska. In this connection, a public hearing will be held in the district court room of the Holt county courthouse in O'Neill, on Saturday, December 8, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The purpose of the hearing is to consider such questions as state aid to local school districts, the methods of financing education in Nebraska, and teachers' retirement system, the training and certification of teachers, the normal training program in high schools, and other related questions.

Capitol News...
Proposes 5-Member
Highway Commission

The highway resolution adopted at last week's meeting in Lincoln of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation was undergoing careful scrutiny this week.

Paying close attention were the supporters of Gov. Val Peterson's highway program—with its gas tax and registration fee increases—who were licked by the farm bureau and other organizations in the 1950 referendum.

Some of the people who were active in pushing the revenue measures through the 1949 legislature and later worked in defense of the laws, thought they could see in the farm bureau resolution an invitation to get together on a road program.

The price: creation of a 5-member highway commission. Sen. Art Cormody, of Trenton, was unsuccessful in his bid to steer a highway commission bill through the 1951 legislature. A bill by Sen. Otto Prohs, of Gering, to reenact the penny-a-gallon gas tax boost was also defeated.

The Farm Bureau said in effect here last week, "Give us the commission and then we'll talk about more revenue."

The resolution took notice of recently-directed criticism at counties' handling of Schroeder law money. The delegates endorsed the law and recommended its continuance, but at the same time urged each county Farm Bureau to check on record-keeping, etc., at the county level.

Suggestion—
One of the arguments against a 5-member highway commission has been that 1 member would be appointed (by the governor) from each congressional district and 1 would be named from the state at large. This, said protesters, would mean that 1 district would have 2 members which would mean a tendency to "gang up" on the other districts.

Lincoln's Mayor Victor Anderson, a republican candidate for governor, came up this week with a suggestion that could go a long way toward meeting the objection: Make the 5th member the governor himself.

Further, suggested Mayor Anderson, the 4 appointed members should be evenly split, 2 democrats and 2 republicans. He thinks they should serve 4-year terms with 1 new member every 4 years.

"Experience has shown," Anderson said, "that large numbers of Nebraska people are hesitant to accept the recommendations of a person on what roads should be improved, where new construction should be undertaken and the amount of money to be spent each year. Under these circumstances, it is of vital importance that the legislature demonstrate good faith with the people and give all sections of our state an equal voice concerning roads."

School Lands—

The board of educational lands and funds in the past 3 months has suffered more headaches than the U.S. navy on New Year's day.

At its meeting last week there were twinges of a new one. The board ordered a reexamination of every school land lease to be put up for sale. The order followed a complaint to Gov. Val Peterson, the board chairman, from a Keith county man.

Ernest Holscher, of Ogallala, explained that about 8 years ago, during a lease consolidation program, he received a single 25-year lease in exchange for several leases he held which had only 7 years to run.

Later, about the time his original multiple leases would have expired, he explained, he was "talked into" accepting a new 12-year lease.

The legislature, meanwhile, had passed the now invalidated automatic renewal law of 1947, which also cut the lease period from 25 to 12 years.

The governor, who is not unaware of the political implications of the school land lease squabble, at one point in the discussion, suggested that all sales be stopped until the point could be cleared up.

1,400 Hogs Marketed

There were about 1,400 head of hogs. The 190- to 270-pound butchers bringing from $16.75 to $17.30; there was only a very small showing of heavy butchers weighing over 270 pounds.

And the price on those ranged from $16.50 to $16.75. The 250- to 350-pound sows brought from $16.00 to $16.50; the 350- to 400-pounders, from about $15.75 to $16.00, and heavier sows sold on down.

Feeder pigs were being quoted from $17.00 to $18.50, on feeders weighing over 100 pounds; boars, from $9.00 to $12.00.

The Cattle receipts were in the neighborhood of 750 head. Good steer calves were selling from $39.00 to $40.50; good heifers from $35.00 to $36.00.

Yearling steers, good ones were selling from 30 to 33c; yearling heifers, from 27 to 29c; Canner and cutter sows were demanding from 19 1/4c on down to 17c, and good fat cows were selling in up to $25.00. This cattle market was a little slower than it was a week ago, following the trend established the first of the week at the terminals.

Next regular sale will be held at O'Neill on Thursday, December 6.
