The Drinking-House Over the Way
 (An Advertisement)

The room was so cold, so cheerless and bare,
 With its rickety table, and one broken chair;
 And its curtainless windows with hardly a pane
 To keep out the snow, the wind and the rain.

A cradle stood empty, pushed to the wall,
 And somehow that seemed the saddest of all.
 In the old rusty stove the fire was dead;
 There was ice on the floor at the foot of the bed.

And there all alone a poor woman was lying,
 No need to look twice to see she was dying;
 Dying of want, of hunger and cold.
 Shall I tell you her story, the story she told? . . .

No, ma'am, I'm no better, my cough is so bad,
 It's wearing me out, but that makes me glad.
 For it's weariness living where one's all alone,
 And heaven, they tell me, is just like a home.

Yes, ma'am, I've a husband, he's somewhere about,
 I hoped he'd come in when the fire went out;
 But I guess he's gone where he's likely to stay,
 I mean to the drinking-house over the way.

'Twas not so always, I hope you won't think
 Too hard of him, lady, it's only the drink;
 I know he's kind hearted, and oh, how he cried
 For the poor little baby the morning it died!

You see he took sudden, and grew very bad,
 For we had no doctor, our poor little lad!
 For his father had gone, never meaning to stay,
 I'm sure, to the drinking-house over the way.

over the way.
 And when he came home, it was late at night
 And I was so tired and sick with the fright
 Of staying at home with the baby alone,
 And its cutting my heart with its pitiful moan.

He was cross with his drink, poor fellow, I know
 It was that, not the baby that bothered him so,
 But he swore at the child as it panted lay,
 And went back to the drinking-house over the way.

I heard the gate slam, and my heart seemed to freeze
 Like ice in my bosom, and there on my knees
 By the side of the cradle, all shivering I stayed;
 I wanted my mother, I cried and I prayed.

Yes, it was easy, his dying, he just grew more white
 And his eyes opened wide to look for the light;
 And his father came in, it was just break of day;
 Came in from the drinking-house over the way.

Yes, ma'am, he was sober, at least, mostly, I think;
 He often stayed that way to wear off the drink;
 I know he was sorry for what he had done,
 For he set a great store by our one little son.

And straightway did he go to the cradle bed where
 Our baby lay dead so pretty and fair.
 I wondered how I could have wished him to stay
 Where there was a drinking-house over the way.

He stood quite a while, ma'am, did not understand,
 You see, till he touched the little cold hand;
 Oh, then came the tears, and he shook like a leaf
 And said it was drink that made him all the grief.

Our neighbors were kind, and the minister came,
 And he talked of my seeing my baby again,
 And of the bright angels; I wonder if they
 Could see in the drinking-house over the way.

And I thought when our baby was put in the ground,
 And the man with the spade was shaping the mound,
 If only somebody would help me to save
 My husband who stood by my side at the grave.

If only it were not so handy to drink;
 The men that made laws, ma'am, sure didn't think
 Of the hearts they would break,
 Of the souls they would slay
 When they licensed the drinking-house over the way.

I've been sick ever since, it cannot be long,
 Be pitiful, lady, to him when I'm gone;
 He wants to do right, but you never would think
 How weak a man grows fond of the drink.

And it's tempting him here and tempting him there,
 Four places I've counted on this very square
 Where a man can get whisky by night and by day,
 Not to reckon the drinking-house over the way.

There's a verse in the Bible the minister read,
 No drunkard shall enter heaven, it said;
 And he is my husband and I love him so,
 And where I am going, I want him to go.

Our baby and I will both want him there.
 Don't you think dear Jesus will hear my prayer?
 And please, when I'm gone, ask some one to pray
 For him at the drinking-house over there.—Selected.
