With Holidays Over Appetites—and Cooking—Will Return to Normal

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

Greetings friends and readers. With Christmas over and New Year's, too, and probably the last of the candy and left-overs cleaned up, appetites return to normal and so does cooking. It was wonderful while it lasted, but we can all get tired of too much rich foods. They're not good for either the waist line or budget when one has too much. This is a time to return to the old fashioned, family favorites—piping hot chicken pie for instance with baking powder biscuit topping. How about trying some pressed chicken for a change? When I make pressed chicken, I simmer 1 teaspoon celery seeds with each pint of chicken broth for 10 minutes then strain. The celery seed gives the pressed chicken a really delectable flavoring. I always use a tablespoon of unflavored gelatin to each pint of broth, too. Then you are sure the chicken is firm and delicious.

Stewed chicken should never be actually boiled. It should be simmered just under boiling until it is tender when tried with a fork, and don't use too much liquid when you cook the chicken if you want that full rich "chickeny" flavor.

By the way, even the most ancient old hen will cook tender in the pressure cooker and can go the way of all good old hens. Personally, I like to meet stewed chicken in the company of really good noodles, or light, feathery dumplings. Man oh man, now there is a dish fit for a hungry woman!

Soldier's Mom Wins Subscription —

Dear Mrs. Pease: I've enjoyed your Frontier Woman whenever a neighbor of mine gives me her paper and — wouldn't you know it—I'm trying for that 3-months subscription so as I can have a paper of my own.

This time of year with all the fruit canned, the caves and cellars full of eatables, doesn't one have a grand feeling? Last year I was in the hospital several times for surgery and could just get light housework done. Nearly everything we ate was store canned. So you can see why I say I'm very contented with all my jars filled when last year all were empty.

My health comes first and I do thank God for giving it back to me enabling me to do so much again.

From what I have read, both of our sons are in Korea. Ours writes such interesting letters home. He recently was wounded slightly. He helps carry the wounded down the hills after the battles. Neither his father nor I slept much until another letter came in the mail. Then he never mentioned his wounds so we knew he was all right.

He has been on the battle front almost 4 months. My, how our hearts ache for the boys. We have yet to receive a letter of complaint. He hasn't once written such a letter. He knew what he was in for and is the type of boy that everything is good enough for him. I'm with a million others who pray "Peace be with us again soon."

I'm going to come and see that house of yours if I have to walk. A couple of years from now we plan to build one, too. I did see the picture of it, you and the Big Farmer, and when I saw you with a hammer in hand, I thought, "Oh, oh, I'll bet she couldn't hit the side of a barn, let alone a nail!" Then I read, "For photographers only," and I heaved a sigh, "that's better."

I'd suggest you leave the front hall unpainted and let everyone write their names and address on the wall. Bet that would be the first hall finished. Don't you know it's fun to be the first? Think it over, will you?

Now to more serious sense. Couldn't we have some good 1-dish meals? When we gals get lots of work to do such as washing, ironing, or what have you, let's pop a good nourishing dish into the oven and forget about it until noon. Here's one we like very much, and with everything plentiful, anyone can make it.

YOU NAME IT

Place in baking dish in layers sliced raw potatoes, salt, sliced raw carrots, hamburger, salted and peppered, layer sliced onions, layer uncooked washed rice (1 cup), quart canned tomatoes, pour over all. Bake until done at 350 F. If you haven't tried it, do so, it's delicious.

Good luck to you and your family.

'GRANDMA' BOWDEN IS 88
... "Grandma" Bowden (above), who has lived in Holt county 65 years, on Christmas day celebrated her 88th birthday anniversary. A family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wettlaufer near Page. She has had 10 children—6 of whom are living. Her descendants include 23 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren.

HYNES HOME IN NEW SECTION . . . This neat single-story new home owned by Mrs. Loretta Hynes, 102 W. Benton street, is located in a rapidly growing section of the city west of St. Anthony's hospital. The residence features a large combination living-dining room, 3 bedrooms, bath, kitchen and full basement. Dark green is used in the living-dining area. It is situated on the southeast corner of the block, facing south. Cedars are used in landscaping. Construction was begun in late 1947 and Mrs. Hynes and her 4 children moved into their new home in time for Christmas, 1948. Her children are: Pfc. Edward, who is in the army, stationed at Sioux City; Mary Jo, 19; Robert, 16, and Helen, 12. Mr. Hynes died in a bus accident in 1945.

SANDHILL SAL

Overheard: She: "I wouldn't marry the best man in the world." He: "I know you wouldn't. I wouldn't have you."

Marriage is the most educational institution in the world.

7 Decks of Hogs to Western States —

There were around 300 head of cattle at the Thursday, December 27, sale at the O'Neill Livestock Market. Best lightweight steers brought around 32c. Heifers in the same weight were bringing around 28c. Some pretty good breeding cows were selling at $300 per head. Best butcher cows brought $22.25 and they sold on down to $15.25 on canners. Bulls were quoted from 23c down to 22c.

Some of the Wisconsin heifers brought over $300 with the top at $330. Others of the dairy heifers, including Holstein and Brown Swiss, sold on down to $240. There were around 1,200 hogs. The drop of 50c to a dollar at the central markets was reflected in trading here at O'Neill. Lightweight butchers weighing under 200 pounds were selling from $15.50 down to $14.50, but the top butchers brought from $16.50 to $16.90. Top sows were demanding about $14.75. The sows sold on down to $12.75 for those big, heavy ones.

The shipper market was very good. Seven decks of hogs went to California, Idaho and Utah.

Spend Yule in Omaha — Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Vequist, of Omaha, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vequist.
