Prairieland Talk

 to floral bloom, Christmas bells and stars, choral and church groups. And all have a merry ring that dispels any gloom that may have haunted you.

American widows and children the past year received $1,400,000,000 life insurance payments. Nebraska's Boys' Town has been the inspiration for another Boys' Town, located at Monterey, Mex. In 1951 there were 7,618 miles of gas lines laid, and natural gas promises to reach O'Neill some day. George Washington is still in the White House, not his ghost but a gent by that name functioning as a cook. The "Man of the South" is David Owens, of Charlotte, N.C., who gives away all the profits from his business above what is needed by his family. The 700 Ute Indians, of Utah, are to receive $31,938,673 for land taken from them by the government more than 70 years ago. An old man in Nickolls county, another in Lancaster county, perished in fires that destroyed their homes during the Christmas week. With 4 feet of snow and winds off Lake Michigan, Chicago, Ill., has a vivid winter scene. A Nebraska teacher who has been in school work in Japan, came home for the holidays. Of Japanese children she says "most of them think of America as some kind of heaven."

Zero stands for nothing. It also may mean a frost-bitten nose. This morning temperatures played about the 0, hoar frost adorns the blanket of snow with glittering jewels and out of the blue of a winter sky the sunlight falls on the diamond studded landscape. The verdure and floral bloom of other days are buried under a robe of ermine, pines are dusted with white loveliness and stewart trees reach nude arms out into the frosty air. It is the time of snow and ice and cold, unrivaled beauty of design drawn in frost and ice over my window panes, but the jingle, jingle of sleigh bells once heard on the frosty air has been forever stilled.

If it survives the year out, 1952 will be 1 day longer than the year just ended. Our tradition has had it that leap year is the ladies' chance to lasso recalcitrant bachelors. Good luck to you, girls.

Among other hair-bleaching worries Governor Peterson has incurred the wrath of state bar officials. As Governor Val hasn't much hair that can be bleached and his good prairie-land shoulders are ample for the load we hope to see him survive and one day grace a seat among the nation's lawmakers.

A Spokane, Wash., surgeon went down among the jungles of Peru for a vacation. Visiting a primitive dispensary conducted by others from Yankeeland the surgeon demonstrated his skill by performing 11 pretty complicated operations on that many afflicted natives. Up here that would have meant a sizable financial return. Doubtless having imbibed of the spirit at home that reaches out into the ends of the earth to toss around Yankeeland tax funds, the expert from Spokane donated his services to the Peruvian natives. We trust this spirit of liberality was not exhausted below the equator.

Notwithstanding repeated defeats, the movement to change the calendar and thus disrupt the weekly cycle lives on. An idea, good or evil, persists until it is demonstrated workable or a fizzle. The proposed calendar provides among other things for so-called blank days, that is ignoring the rise and set of sun, the shining path of the milky way and the evening and morning of another turn of mother earth. Thinking to change times and laws. But the hand that set the clock of time to ticking cannot be stayed by the arm of flesh.

Probably not many Nebraskans know that we have such a state function as civil defense. Whatever it is bids goodbye to the gentleman who has had the $6,500 job heading it up. He chucks the job for a similar one in another state at a "substantial salary increase." Salaries are more important than the defense of prairie-land patriots who didn't know they had such a guardian angel.

With our background of American inventive ability it is time some patriot with wheels in his head would think up a plan whereby automobiles and airplanes would rebound and save the necks of the occupants when something solid is encountered.

Huldah Stahnke, the capital city's capable police woman, was busy Christmas eve, not rounding up offenders, but making calls with free gifts of turkeys at homes that might otherwise have had slim pickings at the dinner table. The turkeys were donated by a food market.

Santa being the feminine for saint we are all wrong supposing that fabled personage was a be-whiskered nitwit who embodied the spirit that inspires the yuletide giving. That more properly belongs to and emanates from womanhood.

They do take chances, show their contempt for game laws. And then an alert game warden escorts them into court where they are jarred into sensibility by being relieved of their hunting or trapping equipment and the last dollar.
