THE LAND

This is a money-making small farm unit which adjoins a good Nebraska small town. There are 90 acres of good farm land, all lying completely level. Eleven acres are in new alfalfa and brome grass. About 55 acres are pasture and grazing land. There are 5 acres in old alfalfa and the balance—approximately 16 acres—is used as farmstead and feed yards.

This land is 100 percent free of all noxious weeds. No creeping jenny or cockleburrs can be found on the place. It is very nicely fenced and cross-fenced and woven-wire fencing has been used in the yards. Two wells, plenty of good water piped from supply tank to barn and house.

Location is excellent, one mile from Spencer, town of 635 pop. with good high school, close to several Protestant and Catholic churches and all-weather U.S. Highway 281 runs through place. Soil can be described as good, black moody loam and the farm is considered one of the very highly productive, best-located places in the territory. Drainage system is very desirable.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Mathisen farm is fortunately situated in a very congenial neighborhood, in a good school district, taxes are nominal (1950 $183.00). Spencer offers all desired small town facilities. County seat is 8½ miles away; and O'Neill, 3,100 pop., is 33 miles south.
