Changes Made in

The agriculture conservation program has undergone some changes for this year of 1952.

A few weeks ago, the county PMA committee, the soil conser-structures, spreader ditches and developing springs.

Heraculture conservation were described versions, grassed waterways, erosion control dams, livestock water to build dams when they think a tube will be needed or state approval necessary should make a special effort to make this fact to the SCS technicians so conservation district supervisors, the county agent and the FHA supervisor outlined the program for 1952 in Holt county.

The basic policy of the department of agriculture served as a guide in the development of this program. "The use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre of agricultural land phate and lime in group 1.

Agriculture Program ing prior approval, making the necessary surveys, laying out the practice and checking its completion. For Holt county these water or exceed 10,000 cubic include contouring, terraces, di- yards.

> These practices will be approved if they fit into the basic policy of the department. It will be desirable to obtain long enough in advance of contacting contractor equipment so that the necessary layout work may be done when the contractor is ready to start the job.

Some dams will doubtless rein accordance with its needs for quire tubes. Tubes will be hard day and expect to get service protection and improvement."

(2) If you have work to be done

To meet the nation's growing that all practices, both group I defense needs for food, feed and and II, must be listed on the infiber, farmers this year are faced with the biggest production pro-gram ever asked—6 per cent above last year. The task will be difficult to achieve for farmers are confronted with a smaller labor supply and a tightening sit-uation on many important farm production facilities. To reach the 1952 production goals, farmers will need to follow the most efficient production methods and carry out effective conservation.

At the present time a series of meetings are being held to discuss this program and answer questions and to give an opportunity to make requests for work. Meetings yet to be held
