Carlyle Washechek entered Bryan memorial hospital, Lincoln, for surgery Thursday, March 6. He is "getting a long satisfactorily." Mrs. Ed Semat and son, Roland Dean, arrived home from Our Lady of Lourdes hospital, Norfolk, Friday afternoon, March 7. Carl Asimus was taken to Sacred Heart hospital, Lynch, late last Thursday. F. A. Mues fell on the ice near the Lewis Coker residence Saturday evening and broke his wrist. He was taken to O'Neill hospital. Mrs. Nellie Sparks, who has been a patient in the University hospital, Omaha, returned to her home in O'Neill on Thursday, March 6. Baby Jerome Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKamy, came home with his parents Monday, March 10, from Our Lady of Lourdes hospital, Norfolk. He has been kept in an incubator. He weighed only 4 pounds 12 ounces at birth. He is "getting a long fine" and now weighs 5 pounds 7 ounces. Mrs. Ed Panowicz was taken to Omaha Monday for medical attention. Her husband drove her to Omaha. Don Kessel submitted to a major operation Tuesday in the Lutheran hospital, Norfolk. He is "doing fine." His mother, Mrs. Harry E. Ressel, is near him.

LYNCH — Glen Davy received word that his son, Alfred, is "getting along nicely" after a seizure of pneumonia in an army hospital. Susie Eiler returned to her school work here after undergoing surgery on her knee at a Sioux City hospital. George Veldon Lee is recuperating at home after being hospitalized for rheumatic fever last week. Mrs. Claude Rutledge has been bedfast with a heart condition the past 3 weeks. She is "satisfactory." Mrs. John Thompson returned to her home in Spencer after being hospitalized at the Lynch hospital. Pneumonia patients this week at the Lynch hospital are: Joe Haun, of Spencer, and William Tiefert, of Butte.

EWING — Mr. and Mrs. Leland Welke took their oldest son, Milan, to Norfolk Wednesday, March 5, for a physical check-up. Milan has not been well since a throat infection a few weeks ago. It was discovered he suffered a kidney infection which had developed as a follow-up from the throat trouble. Milan is confined to his home and complete recovery is expected within a few weeks. He is a student of the eighth grade and will continue his studies at home with the cooperation of his teachers. Milan is also interested in athletics in which he has taken an active part. In Boy Scouts he is the assistant leader of the Eagle patrol.

PAGE — Miss Betty Spangler returned to school Thursday after missing eight days of school because of illness. Mrs. Harold Freemeyer, who was "quite ill" last week, is "improved." Mrs. Charlie Cronk is ill and has been confined to her home for several days. Mrs. Roy Stewart is ill and is being cared for at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harvey Cullen. Mrs. Lloyd Fulleman returned home Tuesday, March 4, after spending a week at St. Joseph's hospital, Sioux City, following an operation on her knee.

CHAMBERS — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mitchell took her father to Norfolk Thursday for another eye treatment. The eye is "healing slowly" and is very painful but is "improving." Mrs. Duane Grossnicklaus and baby daughter returned Friday from a Norfolk hospital. Mary Thompson is "good" in Our Lady of Lourdes hospital, Norfolk.

ATKINSON — Ed Claussen took his son, LaVern, back to Our Lady of Lourdes hospital, Norfolk, Saturday where he will receive further build-up treatments for surgery on Monday, March 17. La Vern had returned home on Tuesday for a short rest period. Doctors have diagnosed his trouble as infected tonsils. He had had them removed at one time but they appeared to have developed again. He was to have been inducted into the army on March 11, but has received a postponement until April 12. Mrs. Ralph Kissinger is recuperating at the home of her brother, Robert Williams, at Washita, Ia., following surgery performed March 1 at a Cherokee, Ia., hospital. Mrs. Kissinger is employed at the Gamble store in Atkinson.

STUART — Ed Whitehead, who entered the Ainsworth hospital Monday, March 3, is "improving."

Chief Murdered; Search for Slayer

The vanity had been reported missing about 8 o'clock that night by Dolores Dobrovlny, a telephone operator. The vanity and about $30 found in a purse had been taken from a car parked on South Fourth street near the Odd Fellows building.

The trunk lid on the sedan was raised and none of five persons read the license plate. Mrs. Mary Fleming, a waitress, told authorities she had been parked in a car in an alley between Third and Fourth streets (behind the Western hotel).

She saw the Calkins car move from west to east through the alley. It emerged onto Fourth street near the Gillespie store, probably turned right (south), turned right again on Everett street (at the Dr. L. A. Carter corner), and proceeded westward.

After reenacting the circumstances and positions of the auto Saturday afternoon, authorities are convinced that Calkins spotted the darkened Kaiser parked on an angle, facing northwest, near the Carter garage, on the alley between Third and Fourth streets. The Calkins car, meanwhile, made a "boot-leg" 360-degree turn in the west half of the block, pulled over to the wrong side of the road and stopped near the Kaiser.

Mrs. Fleming said it was just a few moments after the cruiser had passed her car in the alley that she saw the red police signal flash and draw to a stop. By that time the cruiser car had time to turn around and head east.

The investigation of the Kaiser and the vanity case followed. It was during this investigation that Mrs. Fleming and a friend, Harry Wayman, drove past and saw a man with Calkins. Other passersby included three Ewing youths, Richard Spittler, 20, a Creighton university student home for the weekend, LeRoy Boies, 20, and Bill Sisson. The young men had been in O'Neill for the basketball tournament and had not hurried home.

All five witnesses agreed that the man in question was about 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighed about 150 pounds, wore a light topcoat and was hatless—probably on the light complexioned side.

What happened between the trunk investigation and the slaying has not yet been determined. Several inches of fresh snow early Friday destroyed evidence of footprints and tracks. Authorities, however, did conduct an immediate investigation of the area before the snowfall began.

Investigators were satisfied there was no skirmish because the chief's clothes were neat.

There were no shell casings to be found inside or outside the car suggesting a revolver was used, not an automatic.

It was not immediately determined the calibre of bullets. Originally it was thought the shot was .22 calibre. Later following an autopsy during which three bullets were recovered, the officials believed a .32 calibre had been used, possibly a .38. They further reasoned it was an old, seldom used weapon by the bore marks on the bullets.

One of the recovered bullets was forwarded to a ballistics expert for analysis.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is not active in the case, except for technical advice, and will not be called in unless it can be established the sought car bore an out-of-state license plate or the slayer fled across the state line in a stolen automobile.

By late Saturday night more than a hundred persons had been questioned—voluntarily or otherwise—as investigators appeared to be running into a stone wall.

"At first some persons sort of resented our inquiries," said Lt. Harry Brt, of Norfolk, head of the Norfolk office of the Nebraska safety patrol. "We talked to many owners of cars corresponding to the vehicle in which we were interested and we talked to owners of weapons similar to that used."

"People, generally, have been very cooperative," Brt said.

Late Friday the investigators made a trip to Bassett and Ainsworth to quiz people. Holt authorities were working in close contact with county and municipal authorities at Neligh, Butte, Bassett and Ainsworth. At least 20 county sheriffs volunteered services and told Sheriff Tom-jack they were active on the case.

Throughout the midwest a search was on for the Kaiser sedan and for a man answering to the description of the man last seen with Calkins.

Attorney Griffin is appealing to anyone who can supply information concerning a man with a ladies' vanity or suitcase seen on the streets earlier. The case had been stolen about 11 or 11:30 Thursday night. It was a blue suitcase with white trim on edges and corner. The "D.D." initials in silver were in a corner. The case was about 30 inches long, 18 inches deep, and about 7 inches thick.

Also during the night the Shelhamer implement store was entered. A small glass pane in the rear door was broken, the bolt-type lock was moved and the robber or robbers marched in. Two cash registers were opened and the intruders walked off with "about $10 in small change," according to Roy Shelhamer, proprietor.

It is presumed the thief or thieves appeared by the same door. In any event, the door was back in place when the Shelhamer employees opened the store Friday morning.

What connection the Shelhamer robbery has with the murder has not been established.

Capt. Harold Smith, head of the Nebraska safety patrol bureau of criminal investigation, arrived about 10 a.m. with the patrol was notified by Holt authorities.

Exhaustive searching and tracking down "leads" was begun. About 20 officers worked around the clock for almost 48 hours—only to encounter a succession of bitter disappointments.

There were side trips to other points but until late Wednesday all efforts had proved futile.

On Saturday city police a McCook picked up Steve Allen, 27, who gave various addresses of Chicago, Ill., Los Angeles, Calif., and Wray, Colo. He was discharging a .32-caliber weapon, a foreign-type gun, in a McCook restaurant. City police booked him for carrying a concealed weapon. Allen fairly well answered the description of the man with the Kaiser.

Smith, Tomjack and Griffin planned a hurry up trip to McCook late Sunday or early Monday. But they were so exhausted they instead sent Capt. Don Robinson, of the patrol's North Platte headquarters.

Throughout Sunday and until late Monday afternoon it appeared they had the "real thing." Robinson said Allen's stories were "incoherent, his activities were cloudy and he was definitely off-base in giving his arrival time in McCook. First he said he came by bus, then switched to rail. His times of arrival were erroneous, too.

Late Monday the science of ballistics freed the man. The laboratory at Lincoln found a bullet fired from Allen's weapon and the bullets used to kill Calkins had not been fired from the same gun.

Colorado authorities were interested in Allen in connection with breaking and entering.

Tuesday afternoon Holt authorities were aroused over another "hot lead."

Union county South Dakota Sheriff Ekren Tuesday seized a .32-caliber revolver from a 14 year old youth and said it would be checked for possible connection in the killing of Police Chie. Chet Calkins at O'Neill, last Friday.

Mr. Ekren said the boy was arrested after a two-hour chase, which began when the youth drove from a gasoline station, without paying for gas.

Mr. Ekren said the youth abandoned his car, a green Ford, one mile west of Irene, S.D., and took off on foot. He was caught by Yankton County Sheriff Herb Kaiser.

Mr. Ekren said the youth admitted under questioning that he buried a .32-caliber revolver in the snow nearby. The youth said he was from Chicago.

Mr. Calkins was killed by .32-caliber slugs. The burglar was reported to be driving a green or blue-green Kaiser but Mr. Ekren said it was possible the make of the car was mistaken.

Mr. Ekren said the boy claimed he left Chicago Saturday and had no knowledge of the Calkins slaying.

Authorities at O'Neill are interested in the Chicago youth, but they are proceeding now on other thin clues in the pursuit of the slayer of O'Neill's police chief.
