

The Frontier Woman —

Eating Spoiled or About-to-Spoil Food Part of a Grocer's Life

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

Here's April come to stay with us. Soon she'll be flaunting her spring hat of daffodils, crocus and tulips. I hope she will. She's been known quite often to make it icicles and snow instead. And how often she dashes cold water on us, huh? About the last thing we need up in our country is water!

Some how or other this is the time of year when cold canned tomatoes taste their very best. Try adding a dash of celery salt and they'll taste even better. Don't ask me why—but it's true.

Next time you fry some potatoes—and I mean the type sliced raw into hot fat — try adding a large onion sliced. If you're fond of onion, you'll enjoy fresh fried spuds with onions, too.

We always enjoy medium sized peeled potatoes, placed around the roast in the roasting pan and roasted with the meat. Put them in during the last hour, or the last half of the baking time, depending on their size. Baste if you don't use a lid, you won't need to baste if a lid is used. I often add scrubbed, or peeled carrots, too, and sometimes a couple of small onions.

Save fuel by baking potatoes when you use the oven for other food. If a moderate oven is called for, just allow a little extra time for the potatoes to bake.

When I cook potatoes and plan to mash them, when they are done, I drain off the potato water. Pour in milk to mash the potatoes with, set over flame until milk is hot, and mash them in the kettle in which they were cooked. Potatoes are fluffier if you use hot milk, and it saves washing an extra hot milk pan.

Lynch Reader Wins Subscription

Mrs. Lawrence Hoy, of Lynch, wins our three-months subscription today.

Dear Blanche:

What does a stormy day make you feel like doing? Well, very often I give way to writing, even though most of my literary attempts wind up in the waste basket.

I imagine a great share of The Frontier readers received a few Valentines, especially if they had children in school. Those little lines "with love to mother" are more precious than jewels, aren't they? Also my husband brought me a lovely little card which struck the right chord in my heart. Funny, how the little things in life make for the greater portion of happiness. Tomorrow, I believe I shall make the apple sauce cookie recipe which you printed last April, Blanche. We manage a little grocery business so this time of year I am blessed with partially spoiled apples to use in some appetizing manner.

They tell me that using what can't be sold is only a small part of a grocer's life but, as I see it, the farm women have to use up a lot of things for which they have no market. Right now many would shout "eggs!"

Since that is a product that at present is very low in price, it still has wonderful powers of making a good meal nutritional, this salad recipe would be good and economical. I believe it's so hard to find much to make a fresh tasting salad with at this time of the year.

LETTUCE WITH SOUR CREAM DRESSING

Mash the yolks of three eggs. Add ½ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper, one cup of sour cream and 1 teaspoon vinegar. Mix thoroughly. Mix with chopped lettuce, if you haven't cream, commercial dressing with sugar added makes a nice dressing with the lettuce and boiled eggs.

I'm also sending my Jelly Roll recipe.

JELLY ROLL

Beat the whites and yolks of 3 eggs, separately. Then beat them together. Add 1½ cups of sugar. Beat again. Now add 1½ cups flour sifted together with 2 scant teaspoons baking powder. Beat again. Add ½ cup boiling water. Beat five minutes. Put in a large dripping pan (not smaller than 14x20. Bake in a hot oven of 400 F. until done. Turn out on a towel sprinkled with powdered sugar, spread and roll. I usually line the pan, however, some grease the pan.

SAYS SANDHILL SAL

Life may be just a bowl of sour cherries, but think how good they are in a pie!

Maybe men would have been better off if they had never invented the wheel.
