Reports Change in Attitude of French

Cpl. Donald Boyle, of O'Neill, recently arrived in La Rochelle, France, where he is serving with an armored truck unit. Corporal Boyle sailed for France on the USS General Longfelt with 3,500 GIs.

In a recent letter to his mother, Mrs. Gladys Boyle, the corporal remarked that he thinks the attitude of the French has changed considerably from what it was during World War II. "Formerly the American troops were welcomed, but now they tell us to 'go home,'" said Corporal Boyle, who was in France during World War II. He indicates, however, that most of this feeling is communist-inspired.

He witnessed a French communistic riot in the vicinity near the camp and was called out on guard duty. The territory where he is stationed is strongly communistic, says Corporal Boyle.

The French are rebuilding from the rubble of war, and many new and modern homes are in evidence, he writes.

The people are raising crops much like are seen here, and many are already eating from the small home gardens.

Guests at the Guy E. Young home decoration day were their son, A/2 Stan E. Young, of Oklahoma City, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Houston, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Carol Summer, of Ewing.
