Out of Old Nebraska . . .

Campaign in 1890 State's Most Spirited

Prairies Swept That Year by Tornado

An election year inevitably brings forth memories of hot political campaigns of the past, and in Nebraska such memories sooner or later focus on the election of 1890, one of the most spirited and confused in the history of the state.

Describing it, the late Dr. Addison E. Sheldon wrote: "There never has been such a political campaign in Nebraska as the campaign of 1890 and there never can be such another. The later presidential campaigns of 1892 and 1896 were full of fire and enthusiasm, but none of them approached the sublime energy of the human tornado which swept the prairies from August to November, 1890. As one of the speakers in that campaign said from the platform in the hearing of the writer: "We farmers raised no crops, so we'll just raise hell."

The long-endured economic grievances suffered by the farmers of the west erupted in 1890 into a series of third parties whose vigorous campaigning threatened—and frequently defeated—parties who had been entrenched in power since the Civil war.

In Nebraska the people's independent party, organized out of the Farmers' Alliance at a convention in Lincoln, July 29, 1890, swept across the state to win control of the legislature, elect a democrat governor, and unseat all three republican members of the house of representatives.

As Doctor Sheldon wrote, "there never has been such a political campaign in Nebraska." Crowds turned out in unprecedented numbers to listen to independent orators and to sing independent songs, most of which were set to the tune of well-known gospel hymns. Indeed, the independent campaign took on much the color of a religious crusade.

At Wymore on September 23, 1,050 farm wagons were counted in an independent parade, and 1,800 wagons paraded at Hastings the same day. Parades from two to 10 miles long were the order of the day everywhere.

At Cushman park near Lincoln, 20,000 people assembled on September 1. The crowd was so great that orators spoke from different platforms so that all could hear.

Quoting again from Doctor Sheldon: "It was like one continuous Fourth of July celebration with delegations from different alliances and prints headed by pioneers driving to some ample woodland and spending the entire day visiting and politics."

Mr. and Mrs. George Brainard and family of Grand Island were weekend guests of Mrs. Brainard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox. Other guests on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Fox and children and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fox and family, all of Emmet, Mrs. Joe Luth of Grand Island and Mrs. Francis Holtz and Mrs. Fritz Belzer.

For Sale, Bargain: Stainless Steel Teeth

Not many people know it, but Uncle Sam buys millions of dollars' worth of stainless steel teeth. Don't get upset. They're not the chewing kind. They're the jet plane kind.

You see, stainless steel teeth are blades that fit inside the engine walls of jet planes. The blades help to drive air into the firing chambers. There are more than 1,000 of these teeth in each engine, and up to a little while ago each one had to be forged—a slow, fussy, expensive method.

The problem was dumped in the lap of G-E specialists, and they solved it.

The result is that today we roll a continuous strip of stainless steel, cut the teeth to length, and weld them to a base. Works fine. The cash saving: 55%. Critical material saving: 39%.

There's an extra reason to be happy about this, since all of us taxpayers have to foot the bills. Millions of dollars will be saved by the military services in future blade production. And the how-to-do-it is being shared through the U.S. Air Force with other jet engine builders.

Congratulations TO DONALD STRONG

Donald and "Butch" . . . Grand Champion Hereford Baby Beef At the 1952 Holt County FAIR

Don has been feeding this steer calf FOXBILT's famous SUPERCENTRATE since that day, back in the early Spring of this year, when he began grooming "Butch" for this wonderful honor.

Quality seems to be answer for turning corn into beef AT A PROFIT. And, as far as balancers are concerned, FOXBILT's SUPERCENTRATE means quality. More and more of the top-notch, progressive cattle feeders are turning to FOXBILT's SUPERCENTRATE because they are finding from comparative feeding tests that SUPER does the job!
