The Scott Community club held a Christmas party Sunday, December 14, at the Scottville hall. A 1 o'clock dinner was presented. A clever skit was presented at 2:30 when Santa (Mrs. Frank McDonald) came feeling "very ill." The family, Mrs. Charlie Gifford, Janet and Larry, tried all sorts of "medical aid." Finally they solved his "illness" by presenting a program, which included recitations and songs accompanied by the piano, guitar and accordion. Santa's capers all through the program provided as much merriment as the program itself. Santa with the help of Janet Gifford and Janet Krugman passed out the gifts and treats. The hall and tree were decorated by the president and vice-president, Mrs. Charlie Gifford and Mrs. McDonald. A letter from Mrs. Elmer Luedtke, a former member, now living in Omaha, was read. Present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carson, Rexford, Claranna and June, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schollmeyer, Bruce and Barty Jo, Mrs. Anna Carson, Mrs. Harvey Krugman and children, Mrs. Ray Wilson and Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gifford, Larry, Janet and Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lubber, Wayne, Donna, Charles and Patricia, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson, Billy, Philip and Rozella, Mrs. Charles Lubber, Mary Lubber, Rick Truax, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hull and Leroy.

ROYAL THEATER O'Neill

Wed. Thurs. Dec. 31-Jan. 1 Family Nights Claudette Colbert and Ann Blyth in

THUNDER ON THE HILL

A flood covers the English countryside sending the citizens of surrounding villages and travelers in the valley to the hilltop convent and hospital of Our Lady of Rheims. Among those seeking shelter is Ann Blyth, on her way, with guards, to be executed for the murder of her brother. So centre is Sister Mary, played by Claudette Colbert, chief of the hospital staff, and so unceasing are her efforts to prove that innocence, she faces severe chastisement from the mother superior, Gladys Cooper, and near death from the real murderer.
