24 Polio Sufferers in Holt in 1952

(Continued from page 1) assistance possible. "We are sure that if all Holt county people could take one walk through the halls of any of the hospitals which accept infantile paralysis patients, there would be little need to say any more about giving. One feels so helpless. But there is one thing we all can do and that is to give to the march of dimes.

"To us, the National Foundation is going for a good purpose. I have really been taken care of by the foundation, as have my friends in the hospital. And you never know when the disease might strike you and yours."

Duane Braasch, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Braasch of Atkinson, is another polio sufferer who has glowing praise for the foundation.

"The march of dimes is one of the finest organizations of today. Don't be afraid your donations are not going for a good purpose. I have really been taken care of by the foundation, as have my friends in the hospital. And you never know when the disease might strike you and yours."

Duane has received therapy treatments in a Hubbard tank, which recently was provided at St. Francis hospital, Grand Island, by the Kiwanis club of that city. Duane was able to spend most of the holidays at home. He first entered the hospital September 13.

In addition to the assistance that is given those who are stricken by polio, the foundation is expending greater effort and more money on research with the hope that the disease may be brought under control as soon as possible. A percentage of that which is given to the march of dimes goes for this purpose.
