Ike Aide Good Lawyer, Can't Fish

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS

LINCOLN-Newspaper, radio, political and ? legal circles in the capital city were in a ditter over one of Lincoln's native sons being called to a place in the Eisenhower cabinet as assistant to the attorneygeneral, James Lee Rankin being the "victim."

And added to this, Gov. Val Peterson is soon to be on his way to India as representative of Uncle Sam in diplomatic doings.

Lincoln fell for Ike like a ton of brick during the late lamented campaign. Here is some of the payoff dropped into the laps of two of the most agressive exponents of the general for president. And we can say two clean, capable men.

When fellows go fishing together they get acquainted. I fished in the Cedar up above Ericson with Lee Rankin when he was a mere kid and also in Cherry county lakes. Lee couldn't catch a fish if one jumped in his lap, but he is a capable lawyer, clean-cut and will be an ornament to the job. Eisenhower as president needs such as he and Val Peterson in government service.

Personally, I have no illusions. The military is in the saddle. Like many other Nebraskans I voted for General Eisenhower as second choice for the job of housecleaning at the nation's capital; yet aware that the hand of man can do but little to restore order to a troubled world.

"Where's the money?" A boy asked his mother this morning. That mother had directed her child to go and get something where you buy things. She had the money available in the first place. Life's highway is beset with the problem of money! You need a bit of nourishmentwhere's the money? You need the help of a physician-where's the money? You require to be clothed, a place to lay your head, a homewhere's the money? You want culture, you want to read, to know what life hands to others where's the money? Cronin, John Carr and Will Graver to perform the functions of a board of directors constituted the setup in 1906 known as the Holt County Agricultural Society, and their meeting was held a night in May in the office of another who knew more about politics than agriculture, Art Mullen. But there were three members of the board of directors, Messrs. Cronin, Carr and Graver, who had something of an agricultural background. However, it was not an organization incorporated to engage in agricultural pursuits but more properly to provide a good race track for "Shady O'Neill" and "White Wings" to trot the mile, as well as to see that Denny Cronin's ball club was given a place to swing the bats. There was a shed built with the view of livestock exhibits, but nothing much showed up but Pete Duff's running nags. It turned out to be a lively race meet under the nom-de-plume of Agricultural Society.

Probably believing that the business of the church is not confined to forms and ceremonies gone through with once a week, one church group collected and sent to needy in distant lands during the past two years 3,411,170 pounds of clothing and bedding. This is a reminder of the helping hand in ministering to the needy of Rt. Rev. M. F. Cassidy the famine year of 1894, when a lot of prairieland patriots took a handout or went hungry and barefoot. Famine visited us again to some extent in '32. The scarcity, or none at all, of the stuff we eat, was by no means general in this county, the northeast section being the most illfavored spot that season. Eastern centers of population spewed out hords of hungry gents out of work and some of them found this was a good place to get help, and thus became den the heart of man without money? Holt county has contributed two dry holes to the oil drilling industry. Now it is being tried out down in Wheeler county and over in Pierce. * * *

Is a mower a vehicle or a machine? On that question hung a lawsuit in the district court of Holt county and ruled upon by the supreme court. That was in 1932. A mower had been conveyed down the road attached to a wagon. Did that make it a vehicle? Judge Dickson presiding in the trial of the case in district court and who probably knew more about the functions of vehicles and mowing machines than any judge sitting with the supreme court held that a mower was a mower and not a wagon. The supreme court reversed the findings of the trial court on the theory that a mower was not a mower but a vehicle and sent the case back to Holt county for retrial. Doctor Webster defines a vehicle as "any kind of carriage or conveyance." It would require an astute judicial mind to see a mowing machine in that.

A grain farmer told me today that he shelled and sold 4,200 bushels of corn last week at $1.48 a bushel; also sold 2,000 bushels of wheat and still has untouched cribs and granaries of grain. Look out! the assessor will get you yet.

Editorial

You fellows who drive motorized vehicles tossed in a little short of 25-million-dollars in 1952 state gas tax. Are you satisfied with what that pile of tens and twenties has accomplished in the state? The tax load has accomplished and with multiplied government functions there seems to be no relief. The newly-endowed governor is on record for tax reduction. First there will have to be curtailment in spending. It may be possible to do something to cut down state expenses, eliminate some superlatives and maybe replace some high salaried experts with oldtimers with a practical slant on things who know what a day's work should be-and go ahead and do it if it takes 'til midnight.

I don't. know just why that fracas is to be known as II, in view of the fact that war has raged across the world for nearly six thousand years. Senator McCarthy now has a weather eye on the country's colleges with a view of sifting out subversive elements if any. Nebraska institutions of learning have opened their doors to the senator and invite him to come on. Of course, no college faculty that harbors none of the kind Mr. McCarthy is after fears investigation. Only those coming up with protests are under suspicion.

Farmers were given a valuable opportunity to ? cut taxes when congress amended the income-tax law in October, 1951.

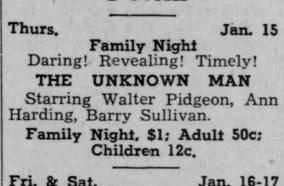

Tax authorities and farmers have waited for more than a year to see how the treasury department would interpret the law. The interpretation will save many farmers money. The law states that profit from sale of livestock, regardless of age, held by the taxpayer for draft, breeding or dairy purposes, and held by him for 12 months or more, will be eligible for long-term capital-gains treatment. Poultry will not qualify.

The January issue of Successful Farming magazine points out that the attractiveness of the new law is that when you report profit from the sale of livestock as a capital gain, you pay income tax on only one-half the profit.

Capital gain is the profit over the adjusted cost of the property sold.

A great many people in the United States are condemned to imprisonment each year although they have never committed a crime. They are the iron lung victims of polio.

At the height of the polio epidemic last September, a survey of Nebraska hospitals showed that 84 persons were dependent upon respirators for their lives.

And these iron lung patients spent on the average 16 hours a day in their iron homes. One out of four relied partially upon a chest respirator or a rocking bed for a portion of the breathing assistance he needed.

At the beginning of last year's epidemic 32 iron lungs and about 26 portable chest respirators were located in the state. But when the epidemic hit its full stride, this number was far short.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was called upon to furnish an additional 41 iron lungs and 16 additional chest units. And the Foundation also provided four rocking beds. and 19 hot pack units in addition to numerous suction machines, wheel chairs, and various other items.

Many Nebraska cities aided in the emergency. Iron lungs were obtained from Lewellen, Ogallala, North Platte, Norfolk, David City, Fremont, Columbus, Kearney, Broken Bow, Fairbury, Falls City, Nebraska City, Sidney and Beatrice.

Portable lungs were recruited from Rushville, Chadron, Kearney, North Platte, Minden, Lyons, Pender, Oakland, Ralston and York.

While some of the iron lung cases, especially those who require 24-hour nursing service, cost the march of dimes as much as $50 per day, the year; abroad, rates provided on request. All average is $18 every 24 hours. A respirator weighs | subscriptions are strictly paid-in-advance.

Twenty-four Holt county persons suffered from polio during 1952 and 15 of these cases became the financial responsibility of the Holt chapter of the National Foundation.

It would seem only proper that all quotas and goals be ignored at this moment, and folks open their hearts-and purses-for a noble cause.

The fund drive would be easy if all people might have a conducted tour of a hospital where polio patients are being treated. There's not a heart on this cold earth that wouldn't melt and bleed. The need for funds is imperative to erase a big deficit and to provide a substantial reserve for those who may be condemned in 1953. You may be one of them.
