Pertinent Views on

Commission Stated

Sandahl Moderates Meeting

By CLIFF SANDAHL

With the Nebraska legislature scheduled to act soon on L.B. 4, the bill to set up a state highway commission, views expressed by members of the Nebraska editors' highway improvement committee at their final session in Fremont several months ago are particularly pertinent at this time.

The question of a highway commission was not specifically assigned to the committee by the Nebraska editors' highway conference but it did enter into the discussions of the overall road problem.

The committee consisted of Senator Dwight Burney of Hartington, Senator Richard Marvel of Hastings, H. G. Greenamyre of the Better Nebraska association, representing the "pro" side, and H. H. Hahn of the Nebraska highway users conference, representing the opposition, with Cliff Sandahl, editor of the North Platte Telegraph-Bulletin, serving as chairman.

Here are salient excerpts from the committee transcript: SEN. MARVEL (directing remarks to Mr. Hahn)—I understand that certain of your groups question the efficiency of the highway department and the fact that some improvements that have been made haven't been made as economically as have been perhaps made in other states. Is that a fair statement? Is that one of the reasons why this particular group thinks a highway commission would solve part of our problems.

MR. HAHN—I think I can answer yes to that.

SEN. MARVEL—Do you have definite facts to back up the matter of lack of efficiency in the department? How did you arrive at that opinion?

MR. HAHN—I don't like to use the term "lack of efficiency." I would like to say that it is a lack of laws under which our highway department has to operate. In Iowa they have different laws and in Kansas and in South Dakota and in all three of those states they have made so much more progress on the secondary road system than we have made in Nebraska.

SEN. MARVEL—Do you mean legislative action rather than re-organization of the department? Do you have definite comparisons to back up those statements? I think we as a committee or the legislature as a whole ought to have this information from Kansas, Iowa formation.

MR. HAHN—We do have in South Dakota whether it is up to date, I don't know. I know that in South Dakota 56 out of 68 counties have local funds to improve their secondary roads in connection with federal funds and in the state of Nebraska there are only 13 out of 93.

SEN. MARVEL—I think to be very frank that your group should take a stand. If they have some definite ideas on this thing and to keep away from further criticism from your group or further conflict which we are always going to have or disagreement, shouldn't you come up with some definite ideas? The legislature sits down in Lincoln with a lot of bills and most of us can't sit down and absorb all the figures or all these problems, and those outside interest groups should come in with some kind of a program somewhere along the line.

MR. HAHN—That is the thing that has concerned us a great deal. I will speak for my own organization (petroleum marketers) because I know it much better. We do collect a lot of information but the whole staff of our organization consists of one girl and myself. When you start to disseminate information on this basis, you are up against a pretty big job. Some of the other organizations have larger staffs.

MR. GREENAMYRE—My association has no objection to an advisory commission. I want to see definite facts to show as a point of argument, ample evidence how the department would be better off than under the present plan or have something else to work on?

MR. HAHN—They have reached some pretty definite conclusions on that. One of the primary results we expect to get from a commission such as we have recommended is that it will provide the public with a lot more information than it has today. A commission just in name is no good. But a commission backed by laws which will require definite and factual information for every certification in the disbursement of state highway funds would give us a tremendous amount of information that we don't have now. We think we must have more information at the present time regarding our present highway tax revenues before you could look for more money.
