Those high-riding Eagles outclassed Ainsworth from start-tofinish in Friday night's title go in the North-Central league tourney at Bassett. Baker's kids were doing everything right;
Ainsworth everything wrong.
O'Neill triumphed, 62-33, with the greatest of ease behind the superb floor play of Davey Eby.

38th Anniversary of Big Storm

Today is the 38th anniversary of one of the much-talkedabout blizzards of yesteryear. The blizzard of February 12, 1915, obliged the Burlington to put into action a double-header "V"type snowplow at Haypoint about five miles east of O'Neill. The object in the left foreground, Charles Johnson, was buried by snow from the plow a few seconds after this picture was snapped. The man in the extreme left background, Henry Phelps, dug out the curious spectator who suffered no ill effects.
