The Frontier Woman . . .
Hot Water Bottle in Clothespin Bag
Gimmick for Warming Cold Hands
By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

Doing the laundry when the weather is frigid isn't much fun. But in some of our families it must be done every week, rain or shine. Perhaps we can give you a few small helps.

Wipe the line with a cloth dipped in strong salt water and add a little salt to the last rinse water. The clothes then won't freeze to the line.
Warm the clothespins in the oven, and keep a hot water bottle filled with hot water in the clothespin bag, on which to warm your hands. Sort clothes and make ready to hang before taking them outside so that you needn't work outside longer than necessary. Put the clothes basket in a small wagon or on a sled after one of Holt county's famous snowfalls so that you needn't bend so far. Take down the clothes the same way.

If there are things that need to be dried in the house, hang them on clothes hangers—they'll dry more quickly and can be straightened to dry with less wrinkles.

Pin small articles of cloth to a pillowcase, or something similar before taking outside, and then the whole item can be brought in, saves space and tingling fingers.

For heaven's sake don't economize on clothespins! They aren't expensive so have plenty, and if you have space, have plenty of clothes line. I know of nothing more irritating than lack of either of these needs.

Never leave clothes out overnight if possibly it can be helped. Bad weather might whip them to shreds. In any case, weather is hard on clothing.

Retaining Egg Flavor Is Simple—
Dear Mrs. Pease:
Everyone can cook eggs so that they retain their flavor, tenderness and attractiveness if a few simple rules are followed.

To hard cook eggs, cover eggs in pan with cold or lukewarm water to cover at least an inch above the eggs. Bring water rapidly to boiling, then turn off heat. If necessary, set pan off burner to prevent further boiling. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Cool promptly and thoroughly in cold water. This makes the shells easier to remove, and helps prevent a dark surface on the yolks. When cooking more than four eggs, do not turn off heat, but reduce to keep water below simmering. Hold 15 minutes and cool as above.

EGGS POACHED IN MILK
Scald the milk with a little salt. Drop in the eggs and pour the milk as it is, or slightly thickened over the toast. Garnish with crisp bacon slices.

EGG SAUSAGE SURPRISES
One and one-third to two pounds bulk pork sausage, eight hard cooked eggs. Divide sausage into eight equal patties. Press sausage firmly to make an even layer around the eggs. Place on rack in shallow pan. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven of 350 F. for 40 to 45 minutes or until the sausage is well browned. Turn once. Serves eight. If desired, serve with gravy prepared with the sausage drippings.

BAKED CHEESE SANDWICHES
Make as many sandwiches as you need to serve by placing cheese slices between bread. Place in a greased oblong pan. Mix together two cups of milk and two eggs, slightly beaten. Pour over sandwiches, set the pan in a pan of hot water and bake in 350 F. oven about 35 minutes or until bread is browned.

This is very nice to serve the children for lunch when they come home from school. For those who like house plants. Place the right plant in the right window this fall or winter. Some plants like light but not direct sunlight, some of these are Chinese evergreen, English or grape ivy and philodendron. Among the plants that like a little sun are begonias. "PATRICIA"

SAYS SANDHILL SAL
Some folks dig their own graves with uncontrollable tempers. Others use their teeth. One of the best reducing exercises is that of pushing yourself back from the table after the first helping.

Schlapf, Mack to Appear Here
Nutrition Expert and Radio Man Coming

The annual meeting of the Holt county extension service will be held Wednesday, March 18, and will feature Dr. Doretta Schlapf of the University of Nebraska and Chris Mack of radio station WNAX, Yankton, S.D.

Doctor Schlapf is one of the better known authorities on human nutrition. She has a down to earth story to tell about what is going on in research. One of her stories concerns standardizing of women's clothing sizes. In other words, half-size clothing is a result of research. Doctor Schlapf studied for her bachelor of science degree at the University of Nebraska, her master of science at Michigan State college, and her doctor's degree was earned at Cornell university. In addition to being chairman of the department of home economics at the university, she is national chairman of the research department of the American Home Economics association and community nutrition chairman of the Nebraska Dietetic association.

Mr. Mack, farm service director of WNAX, recently returned to his duties after a 6½-month leave of absence during which he served as agricultural radio consultant with the U.S. office of special representatives in Europe.

Traveling by plane, rail and Jeep, Mack covered some 30,000 miles in England, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey. In these countries he worked with the various ministries of agriculture in setting up and establishing agricultural radio programs of an educational and informative nature. His work included the training of agricultural officials, newly organized county agent staff members and others on how to produce, write, present and record farm programs. His work enabled him to see many parts of the nations he traveled in—parts few Americans have the opportunity of visiting. In most countries he was also able to visit with the farmers themselves and discuss their problems.

The last three months of Mack's tour of duty was spent in Turkey, where the contrast between the ancient and the modern is extremely outstanding.

Before going to WNAX and after graduating from the University of Missouri, Mack spent some time on a national dairy publication and also as director of information for an organization on the St. Louis (Mo.) stockyards market. A short time ago, he spent several months in Central America with officials of Iowa State college at the Iowa State tropical research center, observing and reporting on the work being done on hybrid corn.

Mack's talk will cover his travels in the five nations visited with particular emphasis on Turkey and the modernization of this country since World War I. His talk will be accompanied by colored slides showing such as the First Christian church in the world, Tarsus, the birthplace of St. Paul, the birthplace of Abraham and many other scenic and interesting spots.
