

Ex-Chaplain Resorts to Kit

DELOIT — It's fortunate that Rev. Robert Hupp, a native of this community, saved his mass kit from the days when he was a navy chaplain during World War II.

Father Hupp is pastor of the newly-created Christ the King Catholic parish on the outskirts of Omaha.

In the absence of a regular church, Father Hupp is holding masses for his congregation Sundays in the ballroom at Peony park under "field" conditions. The kit can be used on any makeshift altar.

Sunday masses are at 8:30 and 11 a.m.

Father Hupp will continue using the ballroom until the first phase of construction on the new church at Eighty-seventh street and Sharnock road is completed. This may take a year.

Architect Leo A. Daly is working on plans for the first unit, an auditorium and school, on the 13-acre plot. Ground breaking is scheduled for this fall.

Church-goers are paying regular park admission. This money will be turned over to Father Hupp by Peony officials.

The church's lease on the use of the ballroom was drawn for one year.

Until he can locate housing within the parish, Father Hupp will live at St. James orphanage. He appealed to his parishioners Sunday for help in finding living quarters.

A census of Catholics living in the new parish is nearly complete, said Father Hupp.

Father Hupp recently was transferred from Wayne to Omaha.

Returns from Dakota— Leon Sargent returned Tuesday, July 14, from Wall, S.D., where he had been visiting relatives for two weeks. Mr. Sargent homesteaded near Wall in 1906 and "proved up" in 1909. He attended an old settlers' celebration while there—first time he had returned for the reunion. Sargent reported catching 125 bass in a week of fishing near there.

Travel to Polk— PAGE—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, Carolyn and Debra took Mrs. Duane Sukup to Polk Sunday where they were met by A/2c Duane Sukup and Mrs. Sukup. They accompanied him to Salina, Kan., where he is stationed. While at Polk they were dinner guests at the Gilbert Lampshire home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNally and daughter have moved to Alliance. They have been residents of O'Neill for the past year. Mrs. McNally is the daughter of Mrs. Christine Williams.
