

Wansers to Operate Ewing Sale Pavilion

EWING—Max Wanser, veteran auctioneer and livestock dealer in the Inman, O'Neill, Page, Ewing, and Orchard vicinities, has purchased the Ewing Livestock Market from Edgar Jensen and son, Duane, who have conducted the business during the past six years.

Max will be assisted by his father, Buy of Page, in the operation of the market. The Jensens purchased the market from the Wansers six years ago.

Max Wanser said he has arranged to lease the present farm, located at the junction of U.S. highways 20 and 275, between Inman and Ewing, and move into town about November 1.

The first sale under the new management will take place Monday, August 31. The Jensens will conduct their final sale on Monday, August 24.

Mrs. Osborne Sends Hints and Helps— Dorsy, Nebr.

Dear Blanche: Enjoy your column so much. After I look at the front page, the next thing I look at is your column to see if some of my neighbors have written to you. We really have a guessing game when the address is Dorsy and a pen name is used. Sometimes we can guess correctly.

Here are some hints. Keep your tape measure wound on an empty adhesive tape spool. It will keep your sewing box neat.

When sewing with a double thread, knot each thread separately. This eliminates twisting and tangling.

If you use bobbin pins instead of straight pins when turning a hem, you will have no pin holes in the garment.

To fit snaps smoothly and perfectly to a garment, sew all the

Ewing Scouts in 2-Day Outing

Guests Arrive for Camp Supper

EWING—Twenty members of Boy Scout troop 181 attended the two-day camporee which ended Friday afternoon.

Phillip Norwood of Midwest, Wyo., was a guest.

In charge were Senior Patrol Leader Allen Peterson, Assistant Patrol Leader Milan Welke, Assistant Scoutmaster H. R. Harris and Committeeman Gail Boies.

Thursday the scouts were busy laying out their camp, army style, on Cache creek, about 3 1/2 miles south of Ewing. Places were cleared for tents, tables and a lighting system was arranged. A trail was marked from highway 108 to the place set aside for parking near the camp. All food was prepared over a campfire. A recreation period during the afternoon included swimming.

Thursday evening 65 guests, including parents of the scouts and friends interested in scouting, also cub scouts accompanied by their parents, arrived for a picnic supper, some of which was prepared over a campfire. This was served after the retirement of colors at 7 o'clock. Games during an informal hour brought the party to a close and by 9:30 lights were out.

The program for Friday including raising the colors at 7 a.m.; followed by tents being placed in order and preparation for breakfast. Camp recreation occupied the time until 11:30 a.m. when fires were built and a dinner was prepared.

At 1:30 p.m., there was a nature hike and they were back to camp at 2:30 for a rest period. At 3 o'clock there was a watermelon feed and at 3:30 the site was policed. About 4 o'clock the camp was broken up, equipment was loaded into trucks and the group headed homeward.

Transportation was furnished by Edgar Jensen, R. G. Rockey, Gail Boies and Allen Peterson, the senior patrol leader.
