The Frontier Woman Do What Grandma Used to Do to Make Boiled Eggs Taste Better

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE
These hot, humid days, when we want to make our cooking just as little work as possible. So this is a good time to serve golden glow salad.

You'll need 12 canned apricot halves, lettuce, 1/2 cup cottage cheese, 1/3 cup chopped walnut kernels and salad dressing, a dozen walnut halves.

Arrange three apricot halves, cut side up, on each of four individual plates of lettuce. Combine cheese and chopped walnut kernels and heap in hollows of fruit. Garnish with salad dressing and walnut halves. Serves four.

Cheese bonbons are good for a garnish with fruit salads. To make them, roll white cream cheese into balls and press a half walnut kernel on each side.

Stuffed celery is another delightful appetizer or garnish. Just soften your favorite cheese with cream or milk, add chopped walnut kernels, and fill celery stalks with the mixture. It's delicious with salads.

When making molded salads, place half of walnut kernels in bottom of the molds before the salad is poured in. When the salad is turned out, the walnuts will appear on top, golden, tempting and will add a bit of flavor.

If you want to dress up apple sauce a wee bit differently, make apple float. Take two cups thick apple sauce, and sweeten it to taste while hot, add a little salt and cool. Beat four egg whites very stiff and fold the cold apple sauce into them. If desired, add two or three tablespoons lemon juice or sprinkle a little nutmeg on top, or add a spoonful of whipped cream to each serving.

Want the boiled eggs to taste different and give the kids a thrill? Then do what grandma used to do. Boil the eggs and drop them into beet pickle juice (from which beets have been taken), allow to stand overnight. They will take up the color and flavor of the juice and the whole family will enjoy something a bit different.

If you still have a patch of late sweet corn, you'll probably profit from knowing that a bushel of corn makes from eight to 12 quarts, if the corn weighs about 60 to 70 pounds.

A bushel of tomatoes will yield about 14 to 20 quarts of tomatoes when canned. And a bushel of peaches makes 18 to 24 quarts.

If you want to compute sweet corn by the ear, which may be a bit easier, it takes about a hundred ears to yield about 14 pint jars. This will give you a better idea of how many ears to gather.

Gothenburg Refers Wims Subscription
Dear Blanche: The summer months are flying fast. So far I have canned green beans, cucumbers, rhubarb and peas. The carrots, beets and tomatoes will soon be ready, before this is printed, I expect.

JOHN R. G
