HURT IN ACCIDENT
Tom Donlin hurt his arm Monday in a one-car auto accident on an O'Neill street. His car was damaged.

Tommy Bartlett Befriends Airman

A/1c Robert Holsclaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holsclaw, last week left for Camp Kilmer, N.J., from where he expects to be sent to England.

At Omaha he ran into a snafu on his plane reservations and instead took a train. During a stopover in Chicago, Ill., with a traveling companion, he encountered Tommy Bartlett, famous announcer on radio's "Welcome Traveler" program. After visiting with the two servicemen, Bartlett presented them with two first-class plane tickets to New York City and also accommodations at the Sherman hotel in Chicago.

Sunday evening Mr. Bartlett called Robert's mother and told her he had met the boys and that he would like her son's overseas address as soon as she receives it. He told Mrs. Holsclaw he would ask Robert to "look up some folks" in England.

Congressman Calls Irrigation Hearing

To Air Pros and Cons at Ainsworth

The feasibility of the proposed Ainsworth irrigation district will be discussed pro and con at 2 p.m., Friday in a public hearing in the Ainsworth municipal auditorium. The hearing has been called by Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska's Fourth district, and a number of Holt county basin enthusiasts are planning to attend.

Congressman Miller and members of the house interior and insular affairs committee, of which he is chairman, have been planning for several months to come to Ainsworth for a personal inspection of the lands within the proposed irrigation district.

The bureau of reclamation completed its final report on the Niobrara river basin development plan about September 1. The report contained a recommendation for immediate construction in the Ainsworth district which would receive its irrigation water from the Snake river in Cherry county.

This report also recommended early development of two additional basin projects—the O'Neill canal and irrigation district and the Mirage Flats extension project.

Preliminary hearings were held last December in O'Neill, Ainsworth, Valentine and Gordon. Principal objections were voiced by a group of Cherry county ranchers owning land along the canal, who fear damage to their lands by drainage or seepage.

At the O'Neill hearing those attending the session were enthusiastic about basin development and now the fate of the $5-million-dollar "east end project" rests with Washington.

Besides Doctor Miller, other members of the interior and insular affairs committee includes: Representatives D'Ewart of Montana, Harrison of Wyoming, Berry of South Dakota, Rhodes of Pennsylvania, Haley of Florida, Shuford of North Carolina and Aspinall of Colorado. Several of these are expected to accompany Doctor Miller to Ainsworth.

Following this hearing, the final report on the project must also be approved by Gov. Robert Crosby of Nebraska before it is submitted to the federal government agencies, where it also must be approved by both houses of congress, budget bureau, appropriations committee and the president before appropriations can be made for construction.

Wed at Neligh—Mrs. Frances Whaley and William Teske, both of O'Neill, were married at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, October 6, at the Antelope county judge's office in Neligh. Attendants were Mrs. Clea Ritts and Ted Zaborowski. The couple will reside in O'Neill.

Arrives Here—Mrs. Mattie Soukup of Sheridan, Wyo., arrived Tuesday evening for a two weeks' visit with her sisters, Mrs. Dean Streeter and Mrs. Clyde Streeter, and their husbands, also with the Clyde McKenzie family.

Supper guests Sunday night at the Leo Schneider home were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Babl, Rosemary and Cecelia, and Andy Ramold of Emmet. The occasion was in honor of Ramona Schneider's birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Ed Hynes and mother, Mrs. Iver Lee of Los Angeles, Calif., spent Monday and Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Loretta Hynes.
