Got Stains? Here Are Tips

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

The time has come when we have to think of housecleaning. There are extra things that pile up and need to be done now and then.

There is a new wax on the market especially made for woodwork and other surfaces. It is fine for cleaning and fine for protection after use.

I like to use a cream wax to clean my furniture every few months and go over all the furniture in the house with it, buffing to a shine after the cleaning is done. The protection is worthwhile in itself.

You'll find that venetian blinds usually need extra cleaning a couple of times a year. Unhook them from the valance part and lay them flat on a table. I use a little powdered cleaner in water to clean mine and finish them with a coat of cream or paste wax for further protection.

Don't forget that the pictures in your home need to be given a good cleaning and polish every so often. While they're down, use a vacuum cleaner where they hang.

I like to use cream wax to clean the frames and a good window cleaner on the glass that covers the pictures.

I like to clean and rearrange the cabinets twice a year, too. And, when I do that, I give the shelves that are triple enameled a good coating of wax to make them easier to clean. Constant use of cabinets soon teaches one the handiest places to keep things and it's a good idea to keep learning as you go along. Sometimes the way that seemed best at the start is not best after all.

The crevice tool on your vacuum cleaner or the dusting brush are both fine for getting dust or any other accumulations from the bureau drawers that you are rearranging. Don't forget to use the vacuum on your refrigerator and home freezer burners, motors and so on, too.

Dear Blanche: Recently I put in a very disgruntled half-hour searching through my files for a hint to remove candle wax stain from my best tablecloth. After locating it along with some other excellent hints, the idea came to me that perhaps someone else might like to paste these on the inside of some often used cook book for future use.

CANDLE WAX STAINS
Let the wax harden, then scrape with a knife as much as possible. Place a blotter on both sides and press with a hot iron. Move the blotter as it absorbs the wax. When the blotter is clean, sponge the spot with tetrachloride. Should the color stain remain, pat gently with diluted denatured alcohol, one part to two parts of water.

LIPSTICK STAINS
On washable materials, soften with vaseline or glycerine, then wash. When unwashable, soften with vaseline, then sponge with carbon tetrachloride. Sponge with denatured alcohol (diluted) should any trace of color remain.

EGG STAINS
When on silk the spots may be removed by rubbing lightly with common salt.

MUDSTAINS
Rub the spots with raw potato.

BLOOD STAINS
When fresh, soak washable material in cold water, then wash in warm soapy water. Should the stains be old, add some ammonia or salt to the water. Soak 15 minutes in cold water, then wash in warm suds and rinse. For blankets, mattresses or upholstery, use a starch paste. Apply to the stains and let dry. Brush, and repeat if necessary.

INK STAINS
When the spots are on colored cottons, mix dry mustard and water to a paste and spread over the spot. Allow it to remain for 15 minutes, then wash and rinse thoroughly. The stains will disappear without injury to the fabric.

PERSPIRATION STAINS

Dampen the spot and spread thickly with borax. Roll the garment up lightly for 15 minutes, then rinse in cold water and the stain will be gone.

MILDEW
Fresh spots may come out in the regular wash. Soaking all night in sour milk is an excellent method for white linens.

OIL SPOTS
Do not use too hot water if washable. Soapless shampoos are excellent for removing fats and oils.

Reverend Ankney Resigns Church

CHAMBERS—Rev. C. D. Ankney, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church here since December, 1950, Sunday formally resigned from the charge and announced he was moving his family to Delaware, O. He has not accepted a call from another pastorate, but indicated he would be going to another church or joining the corps of chaplains for assignment in one of the branches of the service.

Reverend Ankney's family includes his wife, Grace, and two children, Davey, 7, and Diana, 4. Mrs. Ankney was stricken with polio in October, 1951, and never completely recovered.

During his stay here, Pastor Ankney was active in Holt County Infants' Paralysis Foundation work, Boy Scout activities and recently helped to organize the teenage club, all in addition to his church work. Mrs. Ankney taught a rural school one term.

No call has been issued to a successor as yet. The Ankneys are trucking their household goods to Ohio this week. Reverend Ankney is a native of Michigan; his wife is an Ohioan.

Oil Progress Week Proclaimed in O'Neill

Mayor J. E. Davis has proclaimed October 11-17 as oil progress week.

"Whereas the progress, prosperity and national security of the United States depend upon the conservation, through their wisest and most efficient use, of our rich heritage of natural resources and

"Whereas petroleum, which supplies the American people with 62 percent of their power needs, is one of this nation's most precious natural resources and

"Whereas the two million Americans engaged in the oil business use the most up-to-date conservation practices in finding, producing, refining, transporting and marketing petroleum products and

"Whereas the conservation of all other resources, such as topsoil, water, food, fibres, rubber and scarce strategic metals and chemicals needed by civilians and their armed services is made possible on a large scale through the employment of machines powered and lubricated by oil and by the growing use of plastics, synthetic rubber and other products made from petrochemicals and

"Whereas residents of our community who are engaged in the oil business are desirous of illustrating their contributions to conservation through speeches, films and other means, which explain their activities and the activities of their competitive, progressive companies.

"I hereby proclaim October 11-17 as oil progress week."
