'Martin Luther' Film to Norfolk

The life of the great religious leader, Martin Luther, who has so profound an effect upon the world, has been brought to the screen in a spectacular and engrossing motion picture production. It is, as much as historians, theologians, writers, researchers, producers and actors can make it, an objective, absorbing and powerful dramatic production.
 The film first pictures Luther as a law student in Germany in 1500, carries him through a monastic life, deals with his "heresies," his debate before the Diet of Worms, and he evolves as the prime mover in the Protestant Reformation.
 The picture was made on location in Germany by Louis de Rochemont, remembered for such famous documentary style motion picture dramas as "Boomerang," "House on 92nd Street" and last year's "Walk East on Beacon." The setting, costumes and historical references have been carefully authenticated, and the performance by all concerned measures up in every detail to the pictures' production standards. Chief among the huge cast of players are Nial MacGinnis as Luther, John Ruddock, Pierre Lefevre, Guy Verney and David Horne. Irving Pichel is the director.
 This outstanding picture is currently showing at the Rialto theater in Norfolk, November 4 to 10. Rev. R. W. Olson, pastor of Christ Lutheran church here, is urging as many of his parishioners—and others—who can arrange it to see the film.
