The Wyoming rancher, whose mother was an O'Neillite, was the most appealing and impressive speaker of the lot and he ripped into government price supports —a subject he knew very well. Hanson said it's "just a question of time when the American public will react to the entire price support idea—the policy of mak-ing artificially high prices for food products."

Hanson's rough-hewn, western appearance belied oratorical ability. Few in the audience knew he had been a member of the Wyoming legislature. Several reporters questioned whether Hanson had written and pre-pared his own speech, but The Frontier learned through rela-tives here it was Hanson's own handiwork he has studied for a
