Home-Made Coffee Loaf Cake To Serve With Good Coffee

Good coffee deserves a good accompaniment, and there is none better than a home-made Coffee Loaf Cake perfectly flavored with Nescafé. It's so convenient to add coffee flavor to desserts with Nescafé because you add the instant coffee dry right from the jar. There is no need to add water to it. Nescafé can be added for coffee flavor right with the other dry ingredients.

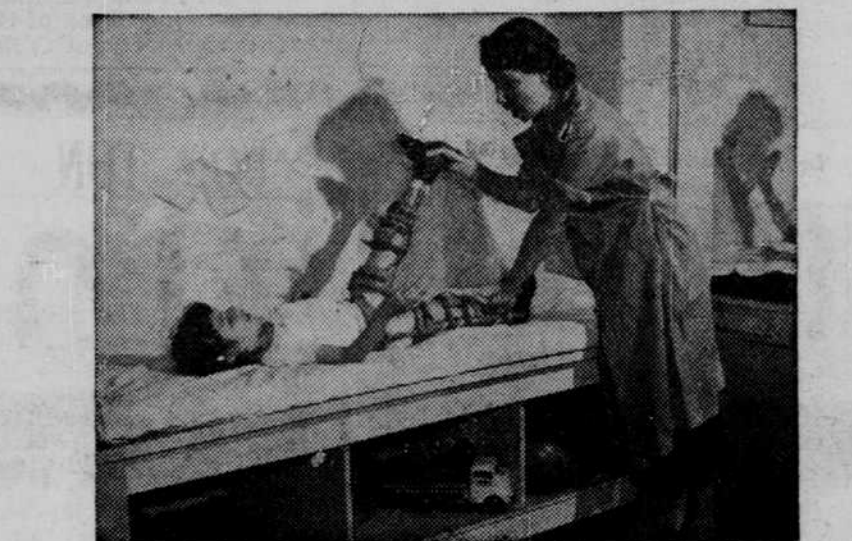

Incidentally, the cup of coffee you serve with this Coffee Loaf Cake can give you a definite price advantage in the coffee situation today. Quality instant coffee like Nescafé are selling up to 25 cents per pound less than ground coffee. The reason for this saving is scientific brewing which produces more cups of coffee from a pound of beans than can be produced by home brewing with ground coffee. Also there is no waste from under or over brewing using instant coffee, and no loss from leftovers.

Coffee Loaf Cake

2 cups sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar

2 tablespoons Nescafé
3 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup pecans, finely chopped

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, and set aside. Blend shortening, sugar and Nescafé. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with the milk and vanilla. Add pecans. Pour into greased loaf pan 10"x5"x3". Bake at 350°F. Time 1 hour 10 minutes. When cooled, spread with orange glaze, if desired.
