Panel Discussions Feature Stock Meet

Ranchers from the sandhills will answer the call to the annual meeting of the Sandhills Cattle association, issued by President Floyd Lackaff of Bassett. This will be the 16th annual meeting of the organization, which has headquarters at Valentine. Date for the meeting has been set for Thursday, May 20, and will open at 11 o'clock in the morning at the Star theater in Theedford.

Ranchers will be especially interested in the two panel discussions to be held at this meeting. One, "The New Brucellosis Control Law," is designed to bring out all the good and bad points about this new law and the organization of control districts. The program committee promises that no punches will be pulled in trying to bring out all the facts of this program.

"The 1954 Market Picture," another panel discussion, will attempt to analyze the fall market for feeder cattle in the light of present market conditions.

Don Collins, vice president of the American National Cattlemen's association, from Kit Carson, Colo., will have some pertinent remarks on the National's beef promotion and current legislation affecting cattlemen. "Livestock—Numbers, Prices, Spread," will be the title of an address by W. C. ("Bill") Haase of Swift & Company in Chicago, Ill.

Highlights of the evening banquet will be a talk by Dr. Dale Welch, president of Hastings college and a well-known banquet speaker both in and out of the state, and musical selections by Rhythm Wranglers a national award winning 4-H group from Cascade.

President Lackaff emphasizes that all ranchers in the sandhills are welcome to attend and participate in the meeting whether or not they are members of the association. The only requisite is that the association headquarters in Valentine be informed ahead of time so that proper arrangements for food can be made.

Hawaiian Setting for Stuart Banquet

STUART—The auditorium was the scene of the annual Stuart high school junior-senior banquet Thursday evening, May 6. The Hawaiian theme was used in the decorations of rainbow colors, flowers and palm trees.

The table decorations were miniature palm trees in a centerpiece of snapdragons, sweet peas and ferns flanked with candles. A lei for each guest added color and gaiety to the scene.

The menu prepared by the mothers of the juniors consisted of tropical dream, game of the jungle, golden dreams, diced bamboo in coconut cup, lilikoi and papa, taro cake, pie with mango ice and coconut milk.

The 10 sophomores dressed in Hawaiian style, who served the banquet, were: Neva Johnson, Merna Kaup, Kay Myers, Janice Scholz, Joyce Siebken, Allen Brewster, Terry Cobb, Larry Frohman, Gary Lockmon and Glen Lockmon.

The program follows:
H—Hawaiian "Koma Mai," by Barbara Bigelow.
A—"Aloha but Not Goodbye," by Dick Shald.
W—"Wind and Hurricane," by Dorothy Friedel and Wilma Kaup.
A—"Aloha Oe," by Jack Hytrek.
I—"Isle of Golden Dreams," by Superintendent Baack.
I—"Ideals of the Isle," by Raedean Kramer.
