Stockmen Point to Chadron Meet

Magazine Editors Will Speak

A large attendance is evident as cattlemen of the state prepare to migrate to Chadron next week for the annual convention of the Nebraska Stock Growers' association to be held in the north-west Nebraska city Thursday through Saturday, June 10-12. The first general convention session will be called to order by Association President D. C. Schaffer of O'Neill, at 2 p.m., Thursday, June 10, in the new memorial building on the campus of Chadron State college.

The Blaine hotel is convention headquarters where registration will get underway at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of June 9. Folks may confirm their lodging needs at that time, Mr. Schaffer advises. Throughout the three-day meeting, both the Nebraska Cow-Belles and Junior Stock Growers will conduct business and social sessions.

In assembling the speaking program, one of the most influential personalities across the land, Wheeler McMillen, editor-in-chief of the Farm Journal magazine, has consented to address Nebraska stockmen on the subject of "Agriculture's Future." McMillen was born and reared on an Ohio farm. At the age of 21 he owned his own paper to become the youngest newspaper publisher in the state. He later returned to his family farm, wrote articles about farming, then accepted the position as editor of Farm and Fireside, later named Country Home.

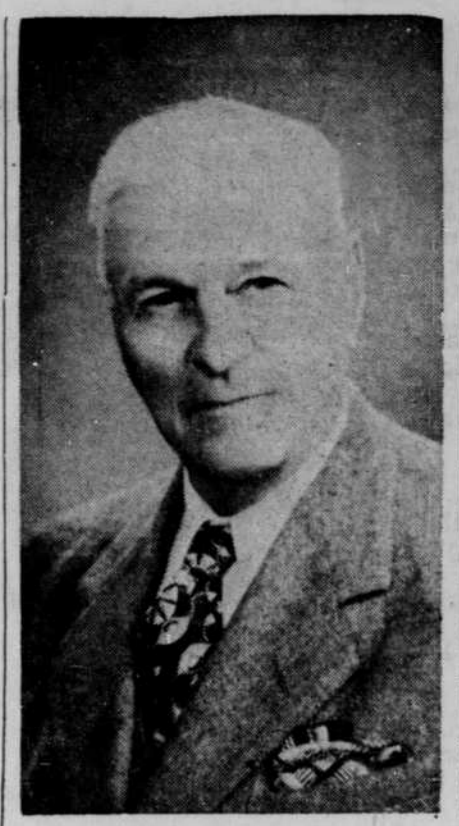

In 1939 he became editor-in-chief of Farm Journal, which is now the largest farm magazine in the United States, with a circulation of 2,880,000. Mr. McMillen is author of four books and for many years was president of the National Chemurgic Council.

Others to appear on the convention program will be James C. Keogh, associate editor of Time magazine, who will discuss national affairs in the topic, "Time to Take Stock"; Paul C. Smith, vice-president and a director of Swift and Company, will address the stockmen on the topic, "The Long View." Sam Hyatt of Hyattville, past president of the American National Cattlemen's associations and a member of Secretary of Agriculture Benson's livestock advisory committee will present a producer's appraisal of the national cattle scene. The eloquent Nebraskan, Dr. Ralph G. Brooks, president of McCook Junior college, is expected to give a crowning address entitled, "From Abundance to Bondage."

Eventful Day at Ressel Home

Wednesday, May 26, was an eventful day at the Harlan Ressel home. Mr. and Mrs. Ressel drove their grandchildren—Dan, Rodney and Nancy Sullivan—to Grand Island from where they took the train for Alameda, Calif., where they will join their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ankeny. Meanwhile, their daughter, Betty Ann Ressel, and Robert Regnier of Detroit, Mich., arrived to spend the memorial day weekend, and Mr. Ressel's mother, Mrs. Fannie Ressel, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Senseney arrived from Manson, Wash. Mrs. Ressel will remain for an indefinite visit in her son's home and Mr. and Mrs. Senseney left for their home Friday. Mrs. Jack Schipper and children of Denver, Colo., were also visitors that day at the Ressel home. On Monday, May 24, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ressel left for their home in Marshall, Tex. Betty Ann Ressel and Robert Regnier returned to Detroit Tuesday.

The Draytons... began housekeeping on ranch north of Orchard.

Henry Drayton, Wife Mark Golden Wedding

ORCHARD — Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Drayton, residents of Orchard for 50 years, observed their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, May 30, in their home. Miss Mabel Housh and Henry H. Drayton were married June 1, 1904, at the home of the bride's parents in Neligh. Rev. V. F. Clark officiated and Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Pexton were witnesses. The couple began housekeeping on the Drayton ranch north of Orchard where they lived for two and one-half years until moving to their present home in Orchard.

Mr. Drayton was born in Oelwein, Ia., March 27, 1876. He is one of seven children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Drayton, who came to the vicinity of Orchard in 1878 and located on a homestead which has been known since as the Drayton ranch. He attended grade school in Glenalpin and high school in Ewing, graduating in 1897.

Mrs. Drayton was one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Housh, who operated a hardware store in Neligh many years. She came with her parents from Illinois when a child and lived on a farm near Neligh until she was nine-years-old. The family moved to town and she was graduated from school in Neligh in 1901.

Mr. and Mrs. Drayton have two children, Gordon W., who owns an elevator in Orchard, and Miss Thelma, who publishes the Ewing Advocate. Their granddaughter, Margaret Jane, attends the University of Nebraska. Mr. Drayton has one brother, T. A. Drayton of Orchard. His sisters are Mrs. Albert Johnson of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Gwendolyn Link of Chadron. Mrs. Drayton's brother, Earl Housh, lives in San Diego, Calif. Her sisters are Mrs. Elsie Bukacek of Neligh, Mrs. Wilson Voorhies of Orchard and Mrs. Edna F. Nelson of Van Nuys, Calif.

Social Security Fieldman Coming

Martin Gundlach, field representative of the Omaha office of the social security administration, will be at O'Neill in the courthouse on Wednesday, June 9, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. He will assist retired individuals who wish to file claims for old-age insurance benefits, as well as those who wish to file claims to survivors' insurance benefits.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brady, jr., attended a Lynch high school alumni banquet at Lynch Tuesday, May 25.

Farmers Want Rigid Supports

Cornbelt farmers are overwhelmingly in favor of rigid farm supports, according to a survey just concluded by Successful Farming magazine. Eighty-two per cent of the farmers who responded to the survey voted for a rigid support, while only 18 per cent want flexible supports.

Farmers from eastern states indicated a preference for flexible supports—in fact, they voted 77 per cent to 23 per cent in that direction. But the votes from the north central and southwestern states overcome the sentiments of the east. One eastern dairy farmer said, "Flexible supports will encourage efficiency in farming, higher consumer spending, and keep the government out of farming." The rigid support ideas were strongly stated by an Illinois cash-grain farmer who said, "How can farmers hope to exist by the law of supply and demand in an economy where almost everything else is manipulated?"

The magazine published pro and con arguments on the price support subject in the April, 1954 issue and asked readers to give their views after reading both sides of the controversy. CONTROVERSIAL Some highly controversial questions are being ironed out in the halls of congress, including a social security proposal, according to Nebraska's Fourth district congressman, A. L. Miller of Kimball. writes the president has asked congress to enact legislation which would increase the minimum monthly payments from the present $25 to $30 and the maximum from $85 to $96.50. The maximum family benefits would be raised from $168.75 to $200.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel DeBacker and Michael of San Diego, Calif., arrived Sunday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. DeBacker and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis.

Lindberg Assigned to Leavenworth Post

Pfc Ralph H. Lindberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lindberg of O'Neill, was recently assigned duty at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. One of the oldest military posts in the midwest, Ft. Leavenworth is the home of the command and general staff college, training school for officers. Lindberg, a veteran of 13 months' Korean duty, is a cook in headquarters company station complement.
