The store of Robert Hoy was entered by burglars and $500 worth of goods were stolen. Anton Worstreich and Dwight Raymer of Atkinson have been engaged by W. R. The Great Northern will run an excursion train to Sioux City daily while Ringling Bros. circus is playing there.

Gov. Charles Bryan will be in O'Neill this week and will address the voters in the interest of his candidacy for United States senator on Sunday.

Donohoe as a farm debt conciliator under the Frazier-Lempke bill. The business men of the city held a meeting to discuss having a free day in the city to celebrate the completion of the paving here. Nine Holt countyans are attending summer sessions at the University of Nebraska. Lee Frezza and daughters of Pittsburgh, Pa., are visiting relatives and friends in O'Neill. Shut-Ins Honored by Extension Clubs

In April of 1953, the women of the Holt county extension council voted to take home to their individual clubs the idea of doing shut-in work. Discussion with the local clubs made the decision unanimous.

Twenty-seven clubs adopted individual shut-ins last year, and this year, there 31 clubs working with shut-ins, according to Mrs. Helen Kreymborg, who until recently was the Holt home agent.

The Cleveland Clackers club chose relatives of club members in rest homes and other homes and visited them. They adopted three shut-ins. This year they are remembering people in hospitals who do not receive mail from anyone else.

The Golden Rod club adopted a shut-in. The honored was remembered 20 times in a year—for the birthday anniversary, Easter, May day and other special occasions.

The Rancho Keepers club took a different shut-in each month and sent cards, hankecherches and other small gifts. Members returned to each month's shut-in as their "woman of the month."

The Eagle valley Rural Neighbors adopted one shut-in last year, and have adopted two this year. In 1953 they had a nanke snowier for St. Valenunes day and sent cards twice a month, also on their shut-ins birthday anniversary. This year they are making turns writing each month, and they don't write them personally. They send cards for special occasions, taking special care to remember birthday anniversaries.

Last year the Young Home makers club of Atkinson adopted a little girl who had trouble with her eyes and needed operations. She had to have her glasses changed often. They remembered her 32 times with cards, gifts or visits.

Their president wrote that adopting a shut-in gave their club members "a feeling that there are others in the world who need cheering up."

This year the Young Homemakers club is having each club member choose a shut-in for the month and send the person a 50-cent gift. This club was last year quite active and outstanding in shut-in work. The help they gave their adopted shut-in last year was concrete.

The Elkhorn Extension club choose to remember four elderly people in their community last year at the Christmas season with cards, small gifts and personal visits. They remembered them in 20 different ways on all special occasions.

The Live and Learn club of Atkinson adopted a shut-in and last year remembered the shut-in twice a month, sending cards, writing notes, sending little gifts and making visits. This club will be adopting shut-in for this year.

The Page Extension club drew names of old people in Page and community who were confined to their homes. They have 15 members and each drew a name. Some called on their shut-in quite often and gave gifts of food or some little remembrance.

The Elderen Extension club adopted a shut-in and two members each month were responsible for sending the shut-in a gift or cards.

The Scott club helped a neighbor. She burned her hand with hot lard. The neighbor was helped for three weeks. When the neighbor moved, she was helped for two additional weeks.

The Valley Center Extension club remembered its shut-in four times with gifts. Last year members adopted an 8 year-old polio victim and sent her gifts from each club members on her birthday anniversary cards on holidays and for Christmas they sent her a dress. This year they adopted 10-year victim of muscular dystrophy. For Easter they sent him an Easter package with art-icles for a small boy. They were planning something for his birthday when they reported to me.

The Celia Homemakers adopted a lady who is badly crippled with arthritis. She was sent a gift each month of the year and on her birthday, each club member sent individual cards and gifts, and the same was done for St. Valentine's day. The Celia Homemakers will carry over last year's shut-in when the year 1955 starts a new one will be adopted.

Circle 9 club adopted a shut-in and remembered this person each month. Members enjoyed giving to her to help make the hours seem shorter.

The Sand Creek Improvement club of Stuart adopted a shut-in and had the hostess of the month be responsible for the remembrance, either cookies or a card. On her birthday, most of the members sent her a gift from the club. They have adopted a new shut-in for this year.

The Atkinson Extension club remembered their shut-in once a month. This group has adopted two ladies from a rest home, and one outside of a rest home, who has since passed away. This year they have decided to adopt a different shut-in each month and are still remembering an occupant of the rest home. Each month, two of their club members visit the shut-in and take flowers, candy or cake. Some have taken chicken or meat of some kind. Last year, one lady was given a bed jacket and night gown on her birthday. This club reported that they believed the club members her greatly benefited from their work, many had never realized how lonely life can be for a shut-in.

The Beacon Neighbors Extension club did not adopt a shut-in last year, but has been making inquiries and selecting one when their report came in this year. They have helped with polio fund and entertainment, and such for the past year.

The Amelia Progressive club adopted and worked with and for a shut-in last year, remembering her in many ways. They have adopted a new shut-in this year.

Mrs. Kreymborg was the home agent supervising aiding and abetting this work. Mrs. Albert Carson was Holt Chairman of extension work last year and Mrs. M. Martens of Atkinson is Holt chairman for 1954.

The shut-in work was done at the suggestion of Blanche Spann Pease of Atkinson, who has been working with shut-ins since 1947.
