Irrigation Tour of Holt Planned
Group to Visit Page, Atkinson Farms
Due to increased interest in irrigation in this region, the Holt county extension service has made arrangements to conduct a second tour of farms and ranches where irrigation is being practiced.
"The extension service feels that viewing systems in operation and talking with farm operators is the best way to learn results," County Agent A. Neil Daves said.
Featured will be irrigation of corn, sorghums, alfalfa, pastures and new mechanical equipment has been designed and built by farmers. Increased beef per acre will be of interest at the irrigated pasture stops. Financing the systems and operating costs will be discussed along with different sources of power.
The group will meet at the courthouse in O'Neill at 9 a.m. Wednesday, August 4, and leave at 9:15 a.m.
First stop at 9:45 o'clock will be at the William Scheinost place, located 5 1/2 miles north and one mile east of Page; second stop, 10:30 o'clock, will be at the Gene Mudloff farm, located 3 1/2 miles north and 1 1/2 miles east of Page; third stop, Gene Mudloff pasture.
Lunch will be procured in O'Neill, leaving the courthouse at 1:15 p.m. A stop will be made at the Irvin Parsons pasture, approximately one mile east of Atkinson on U.S. highway 20. Other stops will follow at the F. J. Brady farm, one-half mile south of Atkinson and one-half mile west; Marion Davis farm, one-half mile west of Stuart and three-fourths of a mile south. Anyone is invited to participate in the tour, Daves declared.

Films to Feature Achievement Program
On Thursday, July 15, the Elkhorn Valley 4-H club met at the George Skopec home. Roll call was "my favorite movie star." We decided to burn the weeds at the Emmet dump on Thursday evening and to go to Valentine on our tour Sunday.
Donald Skopec showed his 4-H calf. Lunch was enjoyed before going home.
On Monday, July 26, we met at the Grant Peacock home with Fred Grothe taking charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Danny Judge. Roll call was "my favorite pet." We decided not to put on a skit for the fun contest. Reports were given on burning the dump, on the Valentine tour and the Long Pine camp. We are planning a local achievement night to be held August 15 at the Catholic church basement in Emmet.
We plan to have safety films, entertainment and lunch. Everyone is invited to attend.
Our next meeting will be August 6 at Elmer Schaff's.—By Terry Gallagher, news reporter.

People Have Confidence in Wagener:

1. Presently Lancaster County Attorney.
2. Senator Kenneth Wherry's Secretary in Washington, 1943-'45.
3. Founder's Day Chairman, 1948.
4. Republican State Central Committee Secretary, 1936.
5. U.S. Department of Justice Omaha-Lincoln Trial Attorney, 1934-'35.
6. World War I Veteran; Chief Attorney U.S. Vet. Adm., Nebraska, 1924-'33.

Frederick H. Wagener

The Wagener Program points up Nebraska's future welfare and provides a prosperity backlog against future economic or unemployment crises.

On Taxation:

Property and real estate taxes can and should be reduced by broadening the tax base. Property tax in Nebraska has become well nigh confiscatory as a result of an archaic and inequitable tax structure. At present, property owners are carrying the burden of state and local government. All should pay their fair share.

A replacement tax is needed at the state level for state expenses and as an aid to the school system. At present property owners are carrying too large a tax load. To insure that everyone pays his fair share of tax, a replacement tax—not an added tax—to be selected by the Legislature is necessary as an avenue to provide revenue for state needs. This will eliminate property taxes at the state level and should reduce taxes at the local level. Real estate taxes can then be reduced 20 to 25 percent.

Constitutional roadblocks should be removed to permit tax reform.

So as to make certain that any tax passed by the Legislature will be only a replacement tax instead of an additional tax, the voters should approve L.B. 7 which prohibits any sales or income tax or some such combination being passed except as a replacement tax first at the state level.

On Natural Resources:

The State's natural resources should be further formulated, instituted, promoted and protected. The state's support of soil and water conservation programs being pioneered in Nebraska should be continued. Systematic management of the state's priceless watershed land, permitting maximum local control in conservation matters, is essential. Such is the plan now being supported by the Eisenhower administration. Irrigation districts should be formed at local levels and coordinated with the Missouri River program. Recreational facilities should be fostered, promoted, developed and improved where and whenever possible throughout Nebraska.

On Roads:

The road program should be intensified and developed with emphasis upon Permanent, Primary and Secondary and all-weather Farm to Market roads. Plans are already underway for toll roads. Toll roads provide the best highways without cost to the taxpayer. Secondary and all-weather farm to market roads are essential to the state's economy. Without them, farmers cannot market. The priority and placement of improvements in new road construction should be left, in some degree, with those who are going to use the roads. Road re-location should not be harmful to local communities nor disrupt local highway economy. The state engineer's office should furnish consulting service when and where requested by local authorities. Too much emphasis is placed upon the element of traffic count in determining the need for highway improvements. Low traffic count roads are entitled to timely improvement. The state should provide sufficient funds to match Federal aid available to Nebraska.

On Farming & Labor:

Nebraska agriculture products should be processed in Nebraska by Nebraska labor for a diversified economy. Nebraska needs a more diversified economy. This can be furthered by processing Nebraska farm products in Nebraska. Already this has been accomplished to a certain extent by alfalfa mills moving into the state where the crop is growing. This provides local employment for many, many Nebraskans. The same thing can be accomplished with wheat, corn and other agricultural products with proper leadership, foresight, and initiative. Industrial and agricultural research should be encouraged, fostered and developed.

On State Institutions:

More attention should be given to state institutions. Underpaid employees do not make for the best of care in our state institutions. Institutional facilities should be improved and coordinated as between institutions to provide the best possible care, confinement and rehabilitation.

On State Budget:

All necessary budget requirements should be held to a minimum. The state—like private business—should receive dollar value for dollar expended, in state purchasing.

On Youth

Individualism and Spiritual development in Youth should be encouraged. After all is said and done, the most important resource in our state is the youth of the state. Hence, individualism and spiritual development in youth should be encouraged. The best way to encourage these characteristics is by leadership based upon Christian ideals and moral integrity rather than upon dollar values. In the matter of juvenile delinquency, preventive is far better than punitive law enforcement.

On Schools:

Nebraska's children should have full educational opportunities. Voluntary redistricting of schools should be encouraged to promote better and more economical education. There should be an improved teacher's retirement system, and any other possible teacher's welfare program. Surpluses from the replacement tax should be, under Legislative direction, plowed back to the school system.
