The Frontier Woman

Hot Weather Short-Cuts Told

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE
If you haven't been having good luck with your canning, it may be because you allow too much time between garden and jar. You may not properly sterilize the jars, lids and rubbers or properly preserve the food. You may be overcrowding the jars by filling them too full. Lots of things can happen. Remember that canning rules are made to be followed and that if canning is worth doing at all, it is worth doing properly.
If you are peeling food that is apt to discolor, put it into water containing a tablespoon of vinegar and two tablespoons salt to each gallon. They may float, so use a lid or strainer to keep them submerged so they won't discolor.
If you try to can over-ripe fruit, you'll get poor shape and poor flavor from the fruit. If you have imperfect fruit, you can use it for jam by cutting it up. You can use rhubarb, apples and carrots for jam stretchers. They are inexpensive and will make jam by filling. Pineapple and citrus fruits are also good jam stretchers, although usually not as economical. Be sure you get all the pits out of citrus fruits, because they'll change the flavor of the jams and not for the better.
For really plump, luscious preserves, cool the fruit in the syrup and then reheat to boiling and pack.
Lemon juice adds to the flavor and texture of quince, strawberry and peach jelly. Crystals in jelly are caused by too much sugar for the amount of juice.
When canning lima beans, green peas or corn do not fill the jars too full. Leave space for expansion at the top.
Don't try to work with large quantities of fruit. It is better to work with smaller amounts and do it more often. You'll get much better results.
PEACH PRESERVES
Blanch, peel and pit one quart peaches. Cut into quarters. Prepare syrup by adding three cups sugar to 1½ cups water and boil 10 minutes. Skim. Add fruit and cook quickly until transparent. Pack hot into hot, sterilized jars and seal immediately with hot, sterilized caps.

Lunch Planning Soon—
Dear Mrs. Pease:
With the thermometer around a hundred this afternoon, it's just too hot to get too industrious, so will try to write you a letter to fill your column, if I may. If I could write and work at the same time, you would get a long letter, and I believe it would be more interesting. But I must think now days is to keep cool, yet keep the home work done — so short cuts are used around here a lot. That's why the ice box comes in handy (what would we do without them?) When we prepare breakfast the other meals are planned, too, and some days if we are alone we have a cold dinner as well as supper.
It won't be long before the sewing for the kiddies for fall school clothes will be done as the summer is going fast. Lunches will soon have to be planned. Here is a good cookie recipe that will be good to try out. They are called:
HONEY DATE BARS
One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, three eggs or six yolks, 1½ cups all-purpose flour, one teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, one cup chopped dates, one cup chopped nuts, confectioner's sugar to shorten, honey and vanilla until creamy, beat yolks eggs one at a time, sift dry ingredients into egg mixture. Blend. Add nuts and dates and stir just enough to distribute evenly. Spread in a greased 9x12 inch pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) until golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Cut into bars and roll in confectioner's sugar. These are good with just plain frosting on top flavored with maple, too.
And to the lucky ones who are able to salvage the berry patch in time for late berries, here is a recipe that will fill the empty containers with preserves:
STRAWBERRY JAM
Four cups of stemmed and well washed strawberries. Mix with five cups of sugar, let stand several hours or overnight. Boil eight minutes, add ½ cup lemon juice. Cool and shake and put into jars. Sometimes instead of using lemon juice we use a stalk of rhubarb, would rather have it as we like the combination.
The flower gardens are a lot of work, keeping them watered and free from weeds, but when one brings in a bouquet of their choice flowers they are just a little glad spikes are paid a little reward on the top with the heat, but are gorgeous just the same.
I have enjoyed visiting with you all, and will have to hurry along now and get the law mowed as this letter is getting too long.
MRS. BUSY BODY
