October Month of Pure Gold

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE

Serve with dessert sauce. Serves six.

Oh, how the years do roll along! Another October is with us and soon it will be winter. Brrrr, the very idea, and only yesterday I could hardly wait for the iris to open!

Many of you raised apples and still have some or can get them very reasonably in the stores and now is the time to serve them in various ways.

If you use them raw in salads, don't peel them. Let that beautiful red skin add color attraction to your salads! Try adding a dash of celery seed to the apple salad with which you use the mayonnaise type dressing.

Have you ever tried an apple and cranberry Betty? You can use more greenish type apples for that.

APPLE AND CRANBERRY BETTY

You'll need three large green apples (or other tart type), one cup bread crumbs (lightly packed), one cup brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, three tablespoons butter and two cups cranberries.

Brown the crumbs in a moderate oven of 350 F. Into a casserole cover of 350 F. Place a layer of sliced apples in a casserole, add half the sugar and nutmeg. Dot with butter. Add half the bread crumbs and a layer of cranberries. Repeat, ending with crumbs. Dot with butter. Bake one hour in a moderate oven.

may not germinate as readily but they will come in time. I love the miniature variety. Do not try to paint fresh ones for they must be.

Along with gourds to harvest there are many other interesting seed pods for use in winter arrangements. I'm thinking of devil's claw. It looks like a small black bird it is cling to the plant when ripened after the green pod has split.

Poppcorn of various colors, ever-lasting flowers and okra and also ever-interesting is a vase of crested cox comb. Its blossoms in brilliant red are a delight with its possibilities.

"When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock," then it's mums time and what a glorious display it makes reflecting the colors of autumn. Mums are not hard to grow and they can survive with a minimum of care.

If a heavy frost is impending before the late mums have bloomed out, cut the stems and bring them inside. If developed far enough the blossoms will come out beautifully in a vase of water.

After the ground freezes, cut the chrysanthemum stalks to lay over the mulch around the plants. This, with the addition of nature's offering of leaves will provide protection for the hardier kinds, Fall and mums are inseparable as spring and violets.

October holds a particularly warm spot in our hearts. Certainly to those of us here in the mid-west it seems a golden time and those who have moved to a different section of the country express a homesickness at the thought of our Indian summer.

Yes, October is a golden month. Don't waste a minute of its beauty.

"DREAM DORA"

This seems to have been a good year for vine crops. Gourds have done very well due to the absence of bugs and they do not seem as touchy as we imagine. It is sometimes said that old gourds seeds will not grow but I have found this is not true. They

Church Layman to Receive Town, Country Citation

STUART—Each year the national convocation of the Town and Country church honors certain laymen with a special citation for outstanding service in a rural church. This citation will be awarded to outstanding laymen from the Presbyterian synods of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas and Nebraska.

Charles W. Mulford of Cleveland Presbyterian church, a country church north of Stuart, has been chosen for this award by the synod of Nebraska.

Mr. Mulford is an elder and the stated clerk of the session of the Cleveland church. He and his wife, Nellie, have raised a Christian family of three sons and one daughter. Their first son, Linden, is an elder of the Cleveland church; second son, William, is now a senior in the San Francisco theological seminary preparing for the ministry, third son, Fred, who is now in military service, has been an active member in the church and youth fellowship.

Their daughter, Laura, a graduate of Hastings college, is married to Lawrence Woodcock, who is attending McCormick theological seminary in Chicago, Ill.

Besides his leadership in the local church, Mr. Mulford has served in various capacities in the Presbyterian and synod. He also has an interest in the youth work and with the cooperation and assistance of the congregations of the Cleveland Presbyterian church, Stuart Community church and Atkinson Presbyterian church, he has made a section of his farm a free Bible camp for the young people in the Stuart and Atkinson trade area.

The national convocation is under the auspices of the division of home missions of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. The convocation will be held at First Presbyterian church in Salina, Kans., on October 26-28.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reimer and family of Niobrara visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reimer, jr.
