Chambers Plans Vet Day Celebration
 CHAMBERS — Chambers will be the scene of a gay centennial celebration on veterans' day, Thursday, November 11. Starting the festivities will be a parade at 1:30 p.m.
 Organizations, churches, business places and individuals are entering floats which promise to give the town an exciting pioneer atmosphere. Novelty events for the kids will follow the parade and at 3 p.m., a matinee show, "Sea of Lost Ships," will be shown at the theater. In the evening the scene of activities will shift to the American Legion hall where the third annual deer feed will be staged between 5:30 and 7:30.
 Hilarity will reign from 8:30 to 9 o'clock as the final session of the kangaroo court will be held. Prior "convictions" of such men as J. W. Walter, E. A. Wink, George Fullerton and Eric Dankert give testimony to the "severity" of the court.
 At 9 p.m., the whisker king and calico queen will be presented and crowned in a fitting ceremony. A dance in the Legion hall will then climax the day-long celebration which is under the sponsorship of the Chambers American Legion and the Legion auxiliary.
