Rep. Miller Says

reports, while not as sensational as advance notices indicated, has provoked a great deal of controversy, according to Rep. A. L. Miller of Nebraska's Fourth dis-

Factions opposing the release have branded it a cheap political trick, crying "foul!" Some factions foresee great political advantage to be gained from information disclosed by the reports. Britain, disturbed by the revelation that Roosevelt was willing to cede Blue Cross Hospital Hong Kong to Stalin, appears to receive the news with mixed reactions very similar to our own in the United States, Miller says.

Many high-level diplomats. both at home and abroad, criticize the policy of publishing reports of diplomatic conferences because, they say, this will tend to discourage strong argument that the begins April 4 and will continue public interest requires full and free disclosure of negotiations involving our country.

Meanwhile, a task force working under the Hoover commission has recently completed an extensive survey of the government medical services, which include the Veterans hospitals. The task force recommended to the Hoover commission that certain Veterans hospitals should be closed, and among them the hospitals at Grand Island and Lincoln. The commission did not, however, adopt this suggestion as part of its report, but recommended instead
