

Weary of Grandchildren?

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

This is a good time of the year to use eggs. The kids will get a bang out of the name of this egg dish. It's called:

EGGS IN PRISON

Two cups cold cooked meat, four eggs, stale browned bread crumbs, seasoning and flavoring to suit the meat.

Grease thoroughly four small cups or moulds and sprinkle thickly with the browned crumbs. Season and flavor the meat rather highly and line the moulds with it, leaving a hollow in the center of each mould. The meat may be moistened with stock or gravy if too dry. Break a raw egg into the hollow left for the purpose in each cup, sprinkle with salt and pepper, bake in a moderate oven till the eggs are set. Turn out and serve with or without sauce or gravy.

SWISS EGGS

One level tablespoon butter, two level tablespoons grated cheese, four very thin slices cheese, four eggs, three tablespoons cream, salt and pepper to taste.

Meat the butter in a shallow baking dish, cut the slices of cheese in pieces of convenient size to cover the bottom of the dish. Break the eggs and drop them into the dish over the cheese, season to taste and pour the cream over the eggs. Sprinkle the grated cheese on top and bake in a moderate oven till the eggs are set and the cheese is a delicate brown.

'Page Readers' Grandchildren 'Adorable'

Dear Mrs. Pease:

I enjoy your column in The Frontier very much and decided to write a letter, hoping to win the subscription.

I can't tell about the cute things my little children are doing as mine are all grown or nearly grown. Our youngest was 15-years-old the first day of spring. But we have quite a number of grandchildren. We really enjoy them.

There's one thing I like about grandchildren—when you get tired of taking care of them, you can turn them back to the parents.

They are so adorable when they are little.

I am sending along a cake frosting recipe. This is good if anyone doesn't like the raw taste of powdered sugar.

FROSTING

One-half cup brown sugar, ¼ cup sweet cream. Put on stove, let come to boiling point, remove from stove immediately and cool. Then stir in your powdered sugar and flavoring.

I will also enclose another recipe. I enjoy the recipes and have so many of my own, I could never try them all.

CORNBURGERS

One and one-half pounds hamburger, ½ cup dried bread crumbs, ¼ cup milk, two 12-ounce cans whole kernel corn, six tablespoons onion finely cut, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ cup all-purpose seasoning. Add milk to bread crumbs and let stand a few minutes. Add ½ cup corn and remaining ingredients. Sprinkle patties with salt and pepper. Spread stuffing on half of the patties. Place the other half on top. Place in a shallow pan that has been well greased with margarine or butter. Spread a generous amount of oil or butter on top and bake at 400 F. for 30 minutes.

Garnish with catsup and serve with the rest of the corn, which has been heated, seasoned and buttered.
