Snider to Work for Train-Savers

Retired Editor Will Travel C&NW Line

M. H. Snider, 57, retired editor-publisher of the Clearwater Record, has been named special traveling representative for the Save-the-Trains association—a group of North-Nebraskans organized for the purpose of stimulating revenue for the last two passenger-mail-express trains, 13 and 14, operating between Omaha and Chadron on the Chicago & North Western railroad.

Snider was hired at a meeting of the officers and directors of the S-T-A held last week at Ainsworth.

Snider is commencing his work with only one month remaining in the eight-months experimental period. C&NW claims the two passenger-mail-express trains have been operating with a 60-thousand-dollar annual loss. In November, 1954, an experimental period with streamlined equipment was begun to determine if revenues could be increased.

Association President Carroll ("Cal") Stewart, O'Neill publisher, said Snider has a lifelong interest in the area and has been active in the train-saving movement since it was founded six months ago. Clearwater is a C&NW point about midway between Norfolk and O'Neill.

Snider disposed of his newspaper about a year ago—a newspaper outstanding for a town the size of Clearwater (pop. 500).

In helping to build passenger, mail and express revenues for these two trains, Snider will work from Omaha to Chadron and all intermediate points. His activities also will take him to the Black Hills area. One of the objectives of the association is to have passenger service extended to Rapid City, S.D., 102 rail miles north of Chadron.

District Judge Lyle E. Jackson of Neligh said the association is "indeed fortunate in acquiring the services of Mr. Snider, who long has been active in affairs of Antelope county."

John Cassel, president of the Ainsworth Chamber of Commerce, said Mr. Snider would be invited to launch his train-saving activities in Ainsworth.

Fay Hill, Gordon rancher, offered a resolution of appreciation from the S-T-A in behalf of State Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill, who introduced and was primarily responsible for the enactment of LB 554 in the current session of the Nebraska legislature. The law, which has been signed by Governor Anderson, amends the old full train crew law to permit dropping of the flagmen on trains 13 and 14.

The enactment of LB 554 enables the C&NW to shave "out of pocket" expenses from 28- to 30-thousand-dollars annually.

Passenger revenues are up substantially with most of the increase shown at stations from Neligh west. Most stations east of Neligh have declined in passenger revenue compared to 1954.

Declines in express revenues have been arrested, S-T-A officials explain. The government has promised increased postal revenue, but the additional mail has not yet been put into effect.
