

Joy in Seeing Full Shelves

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

That time of year has rolled around again when it's time to make pickles and can vegetables, and to freeze fruits and to can them.

If you want good pickles there are a number of rules you want to follow. There are a number of characteristics of good pickles and remember that the correct color for pickles is olive, not bright green.

You won't go wrong by following these general rules: First, use clean, fairly coarse pickling salt, not table salt or iodized salt.

Use soft water. If the water is hard, boil it for an hour and let it settle 24 hours.

Use fresh spices of good quality when you make pickles. These can be ready-mixed or blended but be sure they're fresh.

Use freshly picked cucumbers when making pickles. If you don't, pickles may be hollow or otherwise unsatisfactory.

too strong makes them shrivel. Remove scum as it forms on top of the brine. Scum will cause spoilage.

Don't start pickles in too heavy a pickling syrup. It is better to use the sugar on two or three successive days than to ruin the pickles and have them become tough and shriveled.

VIRGINIA CHUNK SWEET PICKLES

Seventy-five cucumbers, four or five inches long (or two gallons five all ones).

Use high grade cider or grain vinegar of 40 to 60 percent grain strength. Cider vinegar is usually preferred for making pickles but some recipes call for white vinegar.

In that case use the white. If you take your own vinegar jug to the grocery, ask him for that percent of vinegar.

Use fresh spices of good quality when you make pickles. These can be ready-mixed or blended but be sure they're fresh.

Use freshly picked cucumbers when making pickles. If you don't, pickles may be hollow or otherwise unsatisfactory.

Be sure that while curing cucumbers, you keep them completely covered with brine.

Army Nurse Bride of O'Neill Man

Miss Evelyn L. Tracy, daughter of Mrs. J. Tracy of Portsmouth, O., and John J. Vitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Vitt of O'Neill, were united in marriage at a nuptial mass on Saturday, July 9, at 8 o'clock at Fitzsimons hospital chapel in Denver, Colo.

The bride, given in marriage by Peter Cline, a friend, wore a white ballerina-length gown of nylon net over taffeta. She wore a fingertip veil held in place by a crown trimmed with seed pearls, and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the non-commissioned officers' club to the wedding party, Father Knier and the immediate families.

The bridegroom and his attendant wore pale blue-gray business suits and white carnation boutonnières.

The bride's mother wore a medium blue lace dress and the mother of the bridegroom a navy blue nylon organdy. Both wore white accessories and white carnation corsages.

The bride was reared and educated in Portsmouth, O., and for the past 15 months has served in the army nurse corps.

The bridegroom was graduated from St. Mary's academy with the class of 1951, and for the past 22 months served in the army. Before entering the service, he was employed by Consumers Public Power district in O'Neill.

For traveling, the bride wore a two-piece pink acetate dress with an orchid corsage and white accessories.

After a three-day honeymoon, the couple will reside in Colorado Springs, Colo., until time for the bridegroom's separation from the army. After that they will make their home in O'Neill.
