

Two Dead in Murder, Suicide

chaelson together that day. Shearer is believed to be the person who last saw the pair alive. Shearer told Tomjack he saw the couple in Mrs. Michaelson's car on a corner east of the pasture in which her body was found. The sighting was about dusk Monday evening, July 11, he said, and he recognized both of them. Pettijohn was driving.

Shearer has a ranch north of there. Pettijohn was reported to have purchased whiskey and groceries at Naper on June 7 or 8. Mrs. Michaelson was seen Saturday night, July 9, in the theater at Stuart.

Several airplanes aided the manhunters. Planes were piloted by Cletus Durr of Stuart and Captain Anderson of the civil air patrol unit at the Stuart - Atkinson airport.

The search was made difficult by the rugged terrain. The area is virtually covered by ravines and canyons, heavy brush and trees. The general search area included the Niobrara river, Big Sandy and Little Sandy creek valleys in which there is vast wooded area.

Mrs. Michaelson and Pettijohn had been friends for a long time, the sheriff said. While Pettijohn was committed to the state hospital at Norfolk, she went there and worked in the kitchen. They also had operated a Stuart cafe together. He had been released from the hospital June 7.

The deserted barn in which the car was found is on the Horn ranch, just a few yards from the abandoned Hillside chapel, which nestles in a cluster of trees at a turn in the Big Sandy.

Pettijohn's body was located in tall lowland weeds about three hundred yards southeast of the barn. Sheriff Tomjack officially ruled Mrs. Michaelson's death as murder and Pettijohn's death as suicide. No formal inquest was held.

sides with her uncle, Tom O'Connell, 84, several miles below the abandoned barn, drove by the buildings and the Hillside chapel last Thursday morning. She noted the barn door was ajar but did not investigate.

They have no telephone and it wasn't until Sunday morning when a member of the posse stopped in did they know a manhunt was in progress. Mr. O'Connell, who had been horseback riding on Sunday, said he noted some of the wild horses near the Big Sandy were "upset about something."

Michaelson Burial Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Betty Michaelson, 45, whose body was found Friday in a pasture 13 miles north of here, were conducted Saturday morning at Stuart.

She was the adopted daughter of Mrs. Mary Timmermans of Stuart. Mrs. Michaelson operated a cafe in Stuart for several years, but sold the business in 1954 and went to Norfolk to work at the state hospital.

Mrs. Michaelson was born in New York City June 26, 1910. At the age of 2 1/2 she was transplanted to Stuart to a foster home. Burial was in St. Boniface Catholic cemetery. The foster mother and a few friends were present for the interment.

The former Betty Timmermans was twice married and twice divorced.

Finding Woman's Body an Accident

Finding Mrs. Michaelson's body was strictly an accident, Ed Meusch said. The find on a lonely sandhills trail, about 80 rods from a school house, took place on the Willis Peterson place, also known as Charley Peterson pastureland.

Mr. Meusch and his party did not go near the body but hastened to a telephone to call Sheriff Tomjack.

Mrs. Michaelson was lying face down with her hands at her side, suggesting the violence had taken place elsewhere and she had been dropped there.

Pettijohn Buried by Legion Chaplain

STUART—Brief burial rites were conducted Monday afternoon, July 18, for Moran Pettijohn, 31, at the Stuart cemetery. The American Legion post furnished a firing squad and the post's chaplain, Norris Coats, read the military interment lines.

Burial for both Mrs. Michaelson and Mr. Pettijohn were arranged by the Coats funeral home.

Mother Believed Pair Enroute to Work

Mrs. Mary Timmermans, foster mother of Mrs. Michaelson, said Pettijohn and her adopted daughter had stopped at her house the week previous. When they left she thought they were going to work on a ranch.

Mrs. Timmermans identified a striped dark blue dress as belonging to her adopted daughter. Mrs. Michaelson was wearing the dress when she was murdered.
