

Thrice-Delayed Yule Party Held

EMMETT — After having been postponed three times on account of bad weather and blocked road conditions, the annual Christmas party of the South Side club was held at the home of Mrs. P. W. McGinnis Tuesday, January 3, with all the members except two present. Mrs. Agnes Gaffney was a guest.

Roll call was answered by the members repeating the best advice they had ever received. A guessing game was won by Mrs. McGinnis. Mrs. Agnes Gaffney served as auctioneer at a food sale for the benefit of the polio fund. The club added $10 to the proceeds of the sale for the fund. A covered dish dinner was served at noon and a Christmas gift exchange was held.

The club originally had planned to hold its Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Leon Price before Christmas, but postponement was necessary.

Tea Tops Meals

If you're looking for a dessert that won't leave your diners with the feeling of having eaten too much, you can stop looking right now. In all probability it's not always the dessert that gives you that "too much" feeling, but rather the failure of the gastric juices to hasten digestion. The answer? Well—here's how you can serve your favorite dessert and eat it too! Just remember to make a good hot pot of tea your mealtime beverage. Yes, milady—scientific sources report that unlike other beverages which retard digestion because of their volatile oils, tea's tannins (not to be confused with tannic acid) aid digestion—make those gastric juices more active and help relieve the stomach load more rapidly.

The trick in getting the most good out of a cup of tea is in making it properly, according to the experts. And, since this is Take Tea and See Week, this might be a good time to review the rules. (1) Make sure the water is boiling; (2) use 1 teaspoonful of tea or 1 teabag per cup; (3) brew it 3-5 minutes. (If you like weaker tea, just add piping hot water after the brewing period.) When you prepare tea this way, you allow time for the tea leaves to release their beneficial qualities. . . . otherwise you might just as well drink tea-colored water.

Now, just in case you don't have anything in mind for dessert this evening, try this jiffy recipe for Apple Crisp. Aside from butter, sugar and cinnamon, which you probably have plenty of at home, you'll need a No. 2 can of apple slices, and a package of cake or cookie mix. And while you're at the store, be sure to stock up on your tea supply for more family mealtime enjoyment.

Apple Crisp

(Makes about 6 servings)

- 1 No. 2 can sliced apples
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/2 box cookie mix

Arrange apples in buttered 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with cookie mix directly from box. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for about 30 minutes.
