

Kruger to Try for Congress

LINCOLN — The buildup toward the rush for filings for the May primary election in Nebraska already has begun—and filing fees are causing some confusion. This came to light when Paul Kruger of Ft. Calhoun was "overcharged" on his filing fee at Blair for the republican nomination for congress in the Second district.

This drew comment from Deputy Secretary of State Roland Luedtke.

Kruger's filing was delayed while the matter was corrected. Luedtke said Kruger should have been charged only $10 instead of $25, and said the Washington county board could direct the county treasurer to return the overcharge.

Candidates for University of Nebraska regent, presidential elector and convention delegate, are not required to pay a filing fee, Luedtke explained.

For other district and state offices, the filing fee for congress, the fee is $10, except that the charge is $50 for United States senator.

The fee for filing for county office, including county judge and county superintendent of schools, is $5. The fee for district judge is $10, the same as for judges of the Nebraska supreme court.

There also is confusion as to where the fee is to be paid. Luedtke explained this must be done at the county seat of the candidate's own county. The receipt must be presented or mailed to the secretary of state with filing papers before the name can be entered on the ballot.

Meanwhile, Monroe Bixler of Harrison has filed once again for the state legislature. He had considered filing for the Fourth district congressional race on the republican ticket where his opponent, undoubtedly, would be Dr. A. L. Miller of Kimball, who has represented the sprawling Fourth on capitol hill for many years.

tuberculosis was several years ago.

Krugh said people once dreaded tuberculosis and believed it carried some kind of a "stigma". His job will be to direct the state mental health program's plan to attach small psychiatric units to general hospitals throughout the state.

"We want to provide better psychiatric care to more people and make it possible for families to see patients without driving across the state," he said.

Albert Hopeful—
Penal Director B. B. Albert has notified the board of control he hopes to return soon to his advisory post.

But, he said in a letter, that depends upon the outcome of his physical examination this week at Walter Reed army hospital.

Since December 16, Albert has been at his home in Roanoke, Va., on a 60-day leave of absence without pay. He took leave to try to regain his health.

Albert is suffering from arthritis and gallstones. He told the board that the Virginia sunshine has materially helped his arthritis.

And, he said, he hopes the examination will give him a "clear bill of health" so he can be of "further service" to the board.

Krugh Speaks—
Dr. Thaddeus P. Krugh, director of community services for the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha, said education is a big part of Nebraska's mental health program.

At a speech in Lincoln he said mental illness is now at the stage
