Over 500 State Office-Seekers

LINCOLN—Campaigning for Nebraska's May 15 election is underway.

There is more than usual interest in politics this year, observers said, especially in the legislature. The number of candidates who filed and who are set for campaigning is high.

In the last presidential year, 1952, there were 465 filings of all kinds for the primary. This year total is far past the 500 mark, a record.

There is keen interest, too, in races for district judge, especially in Omaha where there are 18 candidates for nine positions.

Seven seek the 21st district state legislature post held by Sen. Ernest Hubka of Beatrice, who did not run again. In Lincoln's 20th district, there are also seven candidates. Sen. Robert Perry did not run again.

In Omaha's 10th, represented by Sen. William Moulton, who is again a candidate, there are seven opponents for Moulton.

Six are trying for the Eighth district seat vacated by Sen. John Larkin of Omaha. In Omaha's Ninth district, incumbent Karl Vogel of Omaha has four opponents.

Assured of election because of lack of opposition are Sens. Otto Kotouc of Humboldt, John Auenkamp of Julian, Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City, Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, LeRoy Bahensky of Palmer, Kathleen Foote of Axtell, William McHenry of Nelson, Don Thompson of McCook, Norman Otto of Kearney, Harry L. Pizer of North Platte, Donald McGinley of Ogallala, and A. A. Fenske of Sunol.

The democrats, who had to fill vacancies on the ballot on the last day before the filing deadline, have their sights set on the Second and Third district congressional races.

In the Second district are Mabel Gillespie of Omaha, Philip Allen of Omaha, J. Emmet McArdle of Elkhorn, Clayton Shroust of Omaha and Joseph V. Benesch of Omaha. On the republican side are Paul Kruger of Ft. Calhoun, Tom P. Epsen of Omaha, William Thomas of Omaha, Warren Swigart of Omaha and Glenn Cunningham of Omaha. Rep. Jackson Chase of Omaha, a republican, did not run for reelection.

Rep. R. D. Harrison of Norfolk, incumbent republican in the Third district, has three opponents on the GOP ticket—Leslie Anderson of Aurora, E. A. Carlson of Norfolk and Merle Haynes of South Sioux City.

Democrats seeking the Third district post are Jesse F. Tepner of Creighton, Ernest Luther of Hooper and Lawrence Brock of Wakefield.

Road Group—

The Highway 92 association is going to help the 1957 legislature a request to add 56 miles of road to the state highway network.

The group voted to hire a lobbyist, to work on that request. The mileage would be from Arthur, where the highway now ends, to Broadwater, where it would connect with Highway 26.

Some observers said this might set a trend for the next session of the legislature to cope with.

Parking Matter—

Action of interest to visitors to Nebraska's capitol has been taken by a group of state employees.

The group incorporated a non-stock association which will lease some lots, tear down two old houses on the property, mark off the property into "stalls," and rent them by the month.

The property is near the statehouse where parking is at a premium.

About 47 cars will be accommodated. This should free some space for out-of-town visitors.

Hospital Costs Up—

Nebraska hospital costs, like everything else, have gone up in recent years. But it probably costs less on the average to be hospitalized in Nebraska than most other states.

In 1950, figures show, the average cost per patient per day in Nebraska hospitals was $17.2. Last year the amount was $17.20.

The national average was $22.50 last year. Only eight states have averages lower than in Nebraska.

Generally, hospitals in Lincoln, Scottsbluff and Hastings, are in the same cost category, with Omaha the highest. But officials said bigger hospitals are faced with higher operating costs because they provide patients with more service and staff assistance.

The Nebraska cost was computed on the basis of figures from 123 of the state's hospitals.
