The Frontier Woman

Two in Family Out of Air Force

By BLANCHE SPANN PEASE, Homemaking Editor

That delectable stuff called asparagus will be thrusting up its head in meadow and tree shade one of these days and it will also be available at the vegetable counters in fresh state. So maybe you'd like to know a new way to serve it.

Tender spring asparagus makes a tempting luncheon dish when you serve it with biscuits.

To the dry ingredients of your favorite biscuit recipe (two cups), add one teaspoon crumbled thyme. Roll out the biscuit dough 3/4 inch thick into a rectangular sheet four by 10 inches. With a sharp knife or pastry cutter, cut into four rectangles, two by five inches. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven of 450 F. 12 to 15 minutes. Split lengthwise. Cook one pound asparagus. Lay stalks of cooked asparagus lengthwise on one-half of split biscuit and slices of hard cooked egg on other half. Pour a tangy mustard sauce over biscuits. Sprinkle grated hard cooked egg yolks over the sauce.

Unless you have a refrigerator that does not need defrosting, I have a short way of doing that job. Remove everything from it, place old newspapers on all the shelves and the bottom, reverse the hose on the vacuum sweeper, hang the end over the door to blow the air in. One needn't stand around to watch it, just move the hose occasionally. As the trays fill with water, I empty them and put them back. The papers catch any drippings that might fall. To save walking back and forth from the refrigerator to the table, which in my home is several feet, I place everything we can collect in 30 years of married life?

Wonder how many more women are like me. As one of our daughters said once, "My gosh, everything that comes in the door, mom saves!" Anyway, the collection of old string crocheted over old nylons which have been dyed various colors makes very pretty hot pads, which are thick enough to keep you from burning your fingers. The old dresses that are still good for some wear can be made into the nicest aprons by cutting the armholes and neck a little larger and binding them with tape and shortening the dress to fingertip length. If they open down the front, I leave them that way, otherwise open the back full length with one button at the top and the original belt left on.

Next morning, take a small part of dough and form into rolls. Put in warm place and when risen to double, bake at 375 F. for 20 to 25 minutes for buns, little longer for rolls. This dough will stay good for over a week in the refrigerator (if it lasts that long, it doesn't here.) I think it is a shortcut as it takes only a few minutes on the day you want fresh rolls.

Things have been happening in our family. Our only son came home after four years in the air force and our son-in-law also came home after four years in the air force. We were also blessed with two new grandsons and one new granddaughter. I helped as much as I could. Spent several days with one daughter, then went to Tennessee and spent several weeks with another. I got virus pneumonia while there and came home as soon as I could travel, but suffered a light heart attack in December so I have to rest a lot.

For most of you who have a man who likes hot rolls and would like them every day, if it were possible, here is a recipe that is small enough for that purpose:

HOT ROLLS

Dissolve one package yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. Scald one cup milk. When cooled slightly, add 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup shortening, one teaspoon salt and two eggs. Beat well. When cool enough, add the softened yeast and add four cups flour, beating as you add it. Place on floured board and knead for about eight minutes, adding just enough flour to work in. Place in greased bowl and let rise till double. Then poke down and place in greased bowl again, covering with waxed paper and towel. Place in refrigerator.

Next morning, take a small part of dough and form into rolls. Put in warm place and when risen to double, bake at 375 F. for 20 to 25 minutes for buns, little longer for rolls. This dough will stay good for over a week in the refrigerator (if it lasts that long, it doesn't here.) I think it is a shortcut as it takes only a few minutes on the day you want fresh rolls.

Hostesses were Mesdames Edie Kacor, Dave Burk, Thomas Kacor, Earl Schindler and Ludwig Fagel.

Rosena Rotherham, Rosalie Spittler and Mrs. Stanley Sojka helped with the gift unwrapping.

To Technical School—Jerry Hickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hickman, is at Keesler air force base, Biloxi, Miss., attending radio and radar technical school. His address: A/3c Thomas J. Hickman AF-2772620, 3411 Student Sq., Box 136, Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens and children of Valley visited Mrs. Stevens' brother, Norbert Clark, and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hansen were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hansen.
