Amelia School Appeals Decision

Accreditation Matter to Supreme Court

AMELIA-Amelia school disict in southwestern Holt county Friday appealed a decision last veek in Lancaster county disrict court at Lincoln

Lancaster District Judge Paul White earlier in the week upheld state board of education order to close Amelia's two-grade high school. The Amelia counsel filed motion for a new trial but the notion was overruled by White, he appeal quickly followed and observers, both in Holt and Laneaster counties, predicted the natter would go to the supreme court regardless of the district ourt's decision.

Meanwhile, Amelia school board officials are proceeding with plans to conduct classes in the two-grade high school during the 1956-'57 terms because the appeal is pending.

Judge White explained that the state board ordered the twograde high school closed on the inding of inadequate facilities, urriculum and insufficient numper of pupils.

Lloyd Waldo of Amelia, who is president of the Nebraska Small Schools association, said Saturday 40 Nebraska schools now belong to the association.

"People in many communities similiarly situated — including small parochial schools-are beginning to become aware of what going on.

"There is a determined effort to wipe off all small high schools and it's simply a matter of time to wipe off all small high schools breakfast at the M&M. before scores of small high schools throughout the state will be picked off.
