Heartier Sweets for Lunches

Welcome to October and its bright blue weather. Here's hoping that by the time this reaches print, it will not have frosted and that we'll get another two or three weeks of sunny weather before it does.

Flowers are always so much prettier in the fall, and all of us like to gather all the goodies for winter that we can from the garden before the blight of frost.

The youngsters will be clamoring for heartier sweets for the lunch box, and so will the rest of the family, too. These black and white cupcakes are different and delectable, so try them.

Thoroughly cream shortening, vanilla and three-fourths cup sugar. Add egg and beat thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Divide the batter. Combine remaining ingredients, blend. Add to half of batter. Fill greased cupcake pans two thirds full with alternate spoonful of chocolate and plain batters. Bake in a moderately hot oven of 375F. 25 minutes. Makes a dozen small cup cakes, so if you're really cake hungry, better double the recipe.

Beat one egg white, dash of salt, half a cup of corn syrup and one-half teaspoon of vanilla until a fluffy spreading consistency.

Halloween will be coming up before we know and in honor of Halloween you can make one egg cupcakes with Halloween faces.

HALLOWEEN CUPCAKES Thoroughly cream: one-fourth cup shortening, two-thirds cup sugar, add one egg and beat thoroughly. Sift together: 1 and one-third cups enriched flour, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla, one-fourth teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Add alternately with one-half cup milk.

Drop by teaspoonful on cookie sheet. Bake at 375F. from 10 to 15 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen.

As its time to gather the eggs and water the chickens, I'll quit. So long for now. Mrs. William J. Murphy

Mrs. John Melvin Praises Victoria Mrs. John Melvin has returned from a seven-weeks' tour of the Northwest and West, visiting 15 states. She accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shelton and two children of St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Shelton is the former Mona Melvin.

They traveled by auto and made the voyage from San Juan to Vancouver, B.C., by water. Mrs. Melvin describes the Olympic peninsula as "the last frontier". "Victoria is a city of hanging flowerpots (or baskets) along its main thoroughfares. There is a strong English influence there, reflected in the stately parliament buildings and churches. The tourists made a sidetrip to the world-famous Butchart gardens", she reports.

From Victoria the family boarded a streamlined ferry, Kanimatic, across the strait to Nanaimo and then to Port Angeles on the northern edge of the peninsula. "This is one of the most spectacular areas in the United States," Mrs. Melvin declares. "We went the northern way and traveled south down the ocean drive through the redwood forest, and return to the midwest the Southern route. "All in all it was a wonderful trip, but I was glad to get back to the plains and the wide open spaces."
